"Mails Go Through" As Army Pilots Battle Storms

PLANES ARE GROUNDED IN SOME SPOTS

First Ship From Chicago Lands at Newark After Flying Into Blizzard
ACCIDENT IN SOUTH
Weather Clear in Midwest and Mail on Time; West in Grip of Rain Storm

By UNITED PRESS

ARMY PILOTS, tackling their new task of carrying the mails today battled the elements as well as their inexperience in this new type of flying, but for the most part the "mails went through."

In the far west fog and storms hampered efforts of aviators, while in the north blizzards of the year grounded all planes. In the south-east the first accident occurred when Lieut. E. T. Gorman cracked up last night in landing at Greenville, S. C., on the flight north from Atlanta. He was uninjured.

In the Midwest, however, weather was clear and the army pilots moved on schedule. Memphis, Fort Worth, Omaha, Chicago and other intermediate points reported "on time" arrivals.

Lieut. Donald Wackwitz was the first pilot to battle successfully the eastern snow and wind, bringing the Chicago mail into Newark two hours late but safe. He left Chicago at 2:45 o'clock this morning, left Cleveland on time and then headed for the dangerous "Hell's Kitchen" stretch over the Alleghenies. As he finally brought his twin-motored bomber down at Newark his fellow army pilots, held to the ground by executive orders, swarmed to the snow covered field and cheered. Wackwitz taxied through the heavy drifts, shut off his motor and a few minutes later the first load of mail carried east by the army was being rushed to New York by truck.

The first scheduled take-off from Los Angeles by Capt. Ira C. Eaker was postponed until this afternoon because of fog and a zero ceiling. The westward flight by Lieutenant M. J. Griggs was far off schedule. He landed at Las Vegas eight hours overdue after a hard fight with the elements.

From Portland Lieut. R. C. Lindsay was pushing toward Boise with the first eastward mail cargo from that city, but it was doubtful if he could get through, as weather conditions were reported hazardous east of Pasco, Wash.

INVESTIGATORS TO CALL LEGION CHIEF

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(UP)—The federal grand jury investigating alleged irregularities in war department transactions decided today to hear Ralph T. O'Neill, former national commander of the American Legion.

O'Neill, former Kansas and an attorney here, requested to be heard after his name had been drawn into the inquiry by two witnesses. David A. Pine, assistant district attorney, presented the request to the grand jury, which decided that it would hear O'Neill under a waiver of immunity at the close of the inquiry. This probably will be late this week.

STRIKE OF PEAPICKERS FADES FOR INACTION OUT IN VALLEY IN LYNCHINGS

Offers of Mediation Are Turned Down as Strikers' Camps Torn Down

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—(UP)—The strike of 4000 pea pickers in the Imperial Valley was reported fast crumbling today as sheriffs deputies razed concentration camps and state and federal officials reported a more conciliatory attitude on the part of growers.

The strikers' camps were destroyed on orders of the Imperial county health board after several cases of scarlet fever and typhoid were reported.

Chairman J. L. Leonard of the United States Regional Labor Board here returned to Los Angeles yesterday from the pea strike area in Imperial Valley with the announcement:

"The offer of the board to mediate, conciliate or arbitrate has been definitely refused, so there was nothing left but for me to leave the area."

SENTENCE OF READ UPHOLD BY COURT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Jail doors were a step nearer Alfred C. Read Jr., today following his defeat in an appeal to escape a 30-day sentence on charges of stealing $11 from Claire Windsor, his one time sweetheart.

The sentence of a lower court was sustained by the appellate division of superior court which held that the young broker was not "trapped" by Miss Windsor for any ulterior motive.

The defendant was given an opportunity to carry out a criminal intent originating in his own mind, the ruling said.

Read had contended he was victimized by a "trap" set by the actress after she lost a $75,000 alienation of affections suit to his former wife, Marion Y. Read, young Oakland society matron. The judgment was later set aside and a retrial ordered.

NEW AGRICULTURAL POST IS PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Establishment of the new post of undersecretary of agriculture was provided for in the agriculture department appropriation bill as reported out today on the basis of assertions by Secretary Henry A. Wallace that he is "short-handed."

The bill, carrying $59,406,460 for the department was brought into the house by the house appropriations committee. Only three departmental appropriation bills still are in subcommittee.

It was brought out during hearings that with only one assistant Secretary Wallace is often forced to call the chief of the weather bureau in to act as acting secretary, inasmuch as the three posts are the only presidential appointments in the department.

The bill also carried $2500 for a new automobile for the secretary of agriculture.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Col. Roscoe Turner, leading speed flier of the country, planned to leave at 3 p. m. today for Detroit, Mich. to confer with his backer, Lou Maxon, regarding plans for a round the world flight starting from London late this spring.

Turner said he would spend the night in Phoenix, and continue his eastern flight tomorrow, weather permitting.

Ten Women Lose Lives During Fire

Memorial Home for Aged in Brookville, Pa., Die in Beds Early Today

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Feb. 20.—(UP)—Ten aged women inmates of the memorial home for the aged were burned to death here today when the home's hospital was destroyed by fire, the Jefferson county sheriff's office said today.

Five of the inmates, all of whom were bedfast, were brought out by firemen while the flames raged through the frame building. The names of the victims were not learned immediately.

The fire apparently started from defective wiring, and spread rapidly through the structure. The aged women, unable to move from their beds, were forced to wait for help to come to them.

Fire whistles brought the Brookville volunteer fire department to the home at 12:30 a. m. An hour after the whistles sounded, the one-story frame building, about 100 feet long, was in ashes.

Residents of the neighborhood said they heard a scream shortly before the whistles. They paid no attention, thinking it was a neighbor's child crying.

SHIP IN DISTRESS 800 MILES AT SEA

HONOLULU, T. H., Feb. 20.—(UP)—The coast guard cutter Itasca raced across the Pacific ocean today toward the steamer Horace X. Baxter, which was reported leaking while 800 miles from Honolulu harbor.

The Itasca was expected to reach the steamer within two days. Messages from the distressed ship indicated that the fuel supply, reported dwindling, would last little more than that time.

The Baxter was built in 1917 at North Bend, Ore., and is the property of the Horace X. Baxter Steamship company of San Francisco. It was bound for Honolulu from Puget Sound.

HEIRESS WILL WED GEORGIAN PRINCE

PASADENA, Feb. 20.—(UP)—The secret engagement of Miss Carol Marmorek, only daughter of Gen. Howard C. Marmorek, automobile magnate, and Prince Nicholas Tekhotova of the former kingdom of Georgia, was learned here today.

Miss Marmorek said they planned a church wedding March 15. Her father has not yet learned of her engagement but she expressed confidence he would approve of "Nicky." Marmon is wintering at Pineola, N. C.

CRIES OF "SOCIALISM" ARE HURLED AS BILL IS PASSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Ignoring cries of "Socialism" the senate late yesterday approved and passed the $200,000,000 postoffice supply bill which carried a provision permitting the postoffice department to manufacture and repair furniture and other equipment at public works-supported factory at Rockville, W. Va.

The bill was passed in the senate by the slim margin of five votes before some of the most astute members were aware as to how it happened.

A vote of 34 to 29 upheld an appropriation committee amendment eliminating a house provision to bar use of funds for the new work, which those in charge of the legislation agreed was the first experiment in the administration's effort to create new industrial centers and subsistence projects.

750 Employees Of Airline Get Furloughs

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 20.—(UP)—One of the nation's largest commercial air lines today sharply curtailed its coast-to-coast schedules and served its entire personnel of 750 persons with notice of furloughs in answer to the government's cancellation of mail contracts.

The furloughs for pilots, hostesses, mechanics and other employees will become effective Feb. 28, it was announced by Richard W. Robbins, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc.

BODY OF KING ALBERT VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Funeral Services Will Be Held Thursday; Leopold Takes Oath Friday

BRUSSELS, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Thousands of sorrowing Belgians passed today before the body of King Albert as it lay in state on its catafalque in the Chapelle Ardente of the Royal Palace.

Clad in a general's uniform, the face bruised by a fatal fall from a mountain rock face, the hands clasping a crucifix, the dead king's body lay in a setting of silver and black draperies and green foliage.

War veterans, war widows, children of war dead, men and women who could remember all of the 24 eventful years of his reign, peopled the streets, peasants in rusty, creased black, waited in line to file slowly past the body and take a last look at the reposed face of a king who was remembered also as a soldier, a sportsman, a devoted husband and father, and a citizen.

The dead king's body will lie in state tomorrow as well as today. The funeral will be held Thursday, with kings and princes in attendance.

WIRT BOWMAN IS FREED OF CHARGES

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 20.—(UP)—Wirt G. Bowman, Democratic national committeeman from Arizona, was free today of gambling charges growing out of the operation of a local night club. A complaint, alleging a misdemeanor, was dismissed on the motion of the county attorney who said there was insufficient evidence to convict. Bowman's business associate, George Eberle, also was excused.

DIRIGIBLE HELD AT RANGER BY STORMS

SUNNYVALE, Cal., Feb. 20.—(UP)—A scheduled flight of the U. S. dirigible Macon was delayed today by unfavorable weather conditions.

Officers at the naval base said that the giant ship would remain in its hangar "pending further orders." The dirigible was to have left to participate in fleet maneuvers off the Southern California coast.

LIFE SENTENCE IS HANDED KIDNAPER

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—(UP)—A life in prison without hope of parole was the fate awaiting Eddie Mitchell, negro, today following his conviction on a charge of kidnapping and robbing Max Goldstein of 74 cents.

The severe penalty was voted by a jury in response to prosecution demands for a conviction under California's anti-kidnaping law.

HOUSE WILL VOTE ON SOLDIER BONUS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(UP)—In face of a threatened veto by the soldier bonus-inflation petition was completed in the house today, assuring a vote on the Patman bonus bill on March 12.

The required 145 names to the petition were reached a few hours after Speaker Henry T. Rainey announced that President Roosevelt is opposed to payment of the $2,400,000,000 bonuses at this time and "cannot approve" any such legislation.

Despite this threat, bonus advocates continued to file up to the speaker's desk and sign the document.

Results Of Three Year Study Heard

Evaporation and Transpiration Blame for Huge Loss of Water

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 20.—(UP)—Nearly half the water which enters the Santa Ana river at Riverside narrows is lost through evaporation and transpiration before it reaches the cultivated areas where irrigation water is sorely needed, according to a report completed by the division of water resources after a three-year study.

Shale and sand formations and vegetation deplete the water supply, despite the presence of a large underground source which could be utilized by sinking wells.

The report shows, through a series of technical tables, a large waste of water occurring in the Santa Ana river and other areas of Southern California.

Recommendations Pumps

"The water which under natural conditions is consumed by un-economic plant life could in large part be recovered by pumping from wells, whereby the ground water table would be drawn down below the root zone," the report suggested.

"Installation of pumps in this area would make available the large underground reservoir that now lies unused. The storage in the reservoir, as well as the summer inflow, could be drawn upon to meet the fluctuating demands for irrigation. During the winter the underground reservoir would be replenished by the inflow from the sides and also by at least some of the storm runoff that may otherwise be wasted into the ocean."

In addition, it was pointed out, water in the mountain canyons, which seeps through shale and rock formations, could be saved in large part by diverting the stream and piping it down the canyon in much the same manner as the city of San Bernardino operates its Devil Canyon.

35 Per Cent Loss

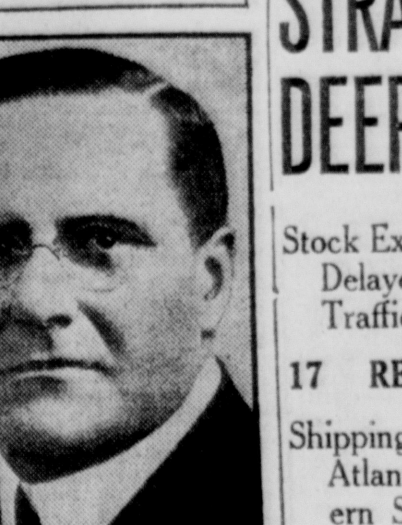

In the lower Santa Ana canyon, there are 1040 acres of land subject to losses, 16,390 acre feet of water being lost in 1932. During the summer of 1931-32 the losses averaged 35 per cent of all the water that entered the valley between Riverside narrows and Prado.

The report, entitled "Water Losses Under Natural Conditions From Wet Areas in Southern California," also gives detailed results of extensive experiments determining the relative consumption of water by evaporation, salt grass, Bermuda grass, tules, willows, rice and other plant life. Willows were shown to be the worst offenders.

AUSTRIAN NAZI LEADER DEFIES ALLIES' EDICT

Threat of New and Grave Crisis in Austria Seen in Habicht's Speech

PARIS, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Theo Habicht, German leader of Austrian Nazis, defied today European political leaders today with the threat of an early, and grave, new crisis in the Austrian situation.

In a wireless speech broadcast from Munich, not far from the Austrian border, Habicht assumed for himself the power of proclaiming peace or declaring war.

He announced that the thousands of Austrian Nazis had been ordered to observe an "armistice" in the fight against Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss from noon today to noon Feb. 28.

Provided Dollfuss did not, during the "armistice" period, reach a "German" solution of the Nazi dispute, Austrian Nazis would renew their fight against him, Habicht said.

The fact that the German government at once forbade newspapers to publish the speech, broadcast last night, did nothing to dissipate uneasiness.

Not only was Habicht's ultimatum-like pronouncement a defiance of the Allies declaration in favor of Austrian independence, issued only Saturday, but Habicht is a German Nazi leader.

Though now accepted as the supreme leader of Austrian Nazis, Habicht is regarded in Europe as German Chancellor Adolf Hitler's personal contact man with them.

GARMENT WORKERS AND PICKETS CLASH

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—(UP)—A second outbreak between garment workers and pickets today resulted in a 19-year-old girl worker being painfully beaten, police said.

The clash occurred in front of Kurtzman Bros. & Co., between nearly 100 men and women pickets and a similar number of workers. Ignacia Arana was knocked down and kicked during the melee, according to police.

Miss Arana was treated at police receiving hospital and sent home. No one else was injured badly enough to require treatment, police said.

of the elevated tracks. Ice on the tracks held them to a snail's pace. Telephone service throughout the suburbs was disrupted for several hours. Milk deliveries were hours late. Some schools were closed. All others announced that no one would be marked absent today.

Stalled automobiles were abandoned by scores.

The rivers and harbor surrounding New York were choked with huge blocks of ice and snow.

A cold wave rode down on the northeastern states on the heels of a driving blizzard, causing 17 known deaths and endangering traffic and shipping.

Three boats were in distress off Massachusetts. A fourth apparently was in distress in Long Island sound.

Fire during last night's blizzard caused the death of ten bed-ridden women patients in the hospital of the Memorial Home for the Aged at Brookville, Pa. Five bed-ridden patients were attributed to other deaths were attributed to the storm in east and central Pennsylvania, including a boy who fell and broke his neck during a snow battle.

Only one plane broke through the snowstorm to land at Newark airport this morning.

30 inches of snow in Connecticut. The snowfall reached a depth of 20 to 30 inches. Western New York reported sub-zero temperatures, with an unofficial reading of 14 below at Buffalo. Motorists reported drifts 10 to 15 feet high along the roads.

The grounded ships included the freighter Northern Sword and the schooner Hope Leslie. The Northern Sword, ashore on a ledge off Winthrop Head, was aided by a coast guard, who attempted to send lifeboats from the cutter Dix. The Hope Leslie, which went aground off Cuttyhunk Island, was freed by the coast guard after hours of effort. The patrol boat CG235 attempted to tow her to New Bedford, but abandoned the attempt.

Reports of another distressed boat came from Nantasket Beach. Two men operating a snow plow said they saw distress flares off-shore through the storm. The coast guard also sighted some flares, but the signals ceased entirely after a while. Mountainous seas prevented the coast guard from using a surf boat.

Traffic in New England was completely paralyzed. Virtually all of Connecticut was snowbound and transportation impossible.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Feb. 20.—(To the Editor of The Register:) Glad they didn't start the army flyers out on the route till morning, for it's a tough night. Been talking to army pilots all the way across and gee, they are just kids. I preached and pled with 'em if it got tough to turn around and go back, or set her down in an emergency field, don't try to show how brave you are. Show how sensible you are. There is not a letter being written that's one-tenth as valuable as one of you kid's lives. But they are just so keen to make good, well it kinder scares you. Mr. Roosevelt, I believe it would do great good if you would warn 'em that you don't expect the service the level-headed old experienced regulars delivered. Col. Arnold, an old friend of mine, in charge of all of 'em in the West, told me in Salt Lake today that he had been preaching that to 'em. I know you will like the way the regular mail pilots take it (and most of them are ex-ers) they are fine men of fine judgment.

TOTAL $4350

Cost of the 1933-34 grand jury investigation totaled $4350.30 according to information released this morning by County Auditor William Lambert. This year's investigation cost less than similar probes during the past four years, he said.

Last year's investigation cost $4618.82. The 1931-32 probe cost $5217.59; it cost $4553.30 in 1930-31 and $5440.36 in 1929-30. Jurors' service and mileage this year cost $1818.20; experts, to audit the books of the various departments cost $2250 and reporter and other expenses cost $281.10.

In 1931-32 the cost was: Jurors' service and mileage $2258; experts $2250; reporters and other expenses $108.82.

In 1931-32 the cost was: Jurors' service and mileage $2081.40; experts $2885; reporter and other expenses $141.18.

In 1930-31 the cost was divided: Jurors' service and mileage, $1,716.10; experts, $2795; reporter and other expenses, $45.20.

For 1929-30 the cost division was: Jurors' service and mileage, $2359.25; experts, $2943.25; reporter and expenses, $237.86.

CLAIMS HOOVER
ORDERED MAIL
BIDS EXAMINED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Chairman Hugo L. Black of the senate airmail investigating committee charged today that former President Hoover, in August, 1933, ordered all bids on a transcontinental airmail route sent to the attorney general for examination.

"I don't recall anything about that," said former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown when questioned by Black about the alleged order.

The bids involved were those of the Transcontinental and Western Air Express and the United Aviation corporation on the route from New York to Los Angeles. A contract was awarded to T.W.A. although the United company was the low bidder.

Brown testified yesterday that he did not consider the United company qualified to bid, and said he would not have taken the "responsibility" of awarding it a contract. The United corporation was made up of several small companies.

Letter Read

Black read a letter, dated August 26, 1933, which he said was written to W. Irving Glover, former assistant postmaster general by Chase Gove, Glover's assistant. The letter read in part:

"My Dear Mr. Glover: 'About an hour after you left, Mr. Coleman called me over to his office and stated that he wanted all of the bids which were opened yesterday, stating further that they were to be sent to the attorney general. I asked him if he would mind stating by whose direction it was being done, as I happened to know that you had been in touch with the White House and the postmaster general. He stated that he had just come from the White House and that this was being done at the direction of someone at the White House. I asked Mr. Coleman if he desired me to prepare anything of that sort and he stated that he would handle it.'"

Black said that within three hours after the Transcontinental bids were opened on August 25, 1933, William P. MacCracken Jr., former assistant secretary of commerce and Washington representative for TWA went to the post-office department and examined the United bid "with a view to submitting objections."

"I recall that they filed a protest," Brown said. "I sent the bids and accompanying papers to the comptroller general."

Brown said he discussed the bid with President Hoover.

"How many times did you discuss this with the president?" Black asked.

"I only recall the one conversation. It might have been mentioned again."

"Did you ever discuss it with Herbert Hoover Jr.?"

"I never did."

The comptroller informed the department that in his opinion the low bid could not legally be rejected on the grounds that the company had not qualified under the night-flying provision in the postal regulations.

Black brought out in questioning that all air-line companies carrying the mails two weeks ago were operating on contracts, extensions or route certificates issued by Brown.

"And they were all given certificates after that conference in May, 1930?" Black asked.

"I'm not questioning that, but it's a matter I'd want to look at further," Brown said.

Black then attempted to show that political consideration prompted Brown to arrange for airmail contracts to expire in April, 1933.

"Is it not true," asked Black, "that the route certificates were drawn so that they would expire two months before the regular Republican convention in June, 1933?"

Brown smiled and admitted the "coincidence," but said:

"I don't have time to think about that. Sometimes I thought about the conventions, but not when I was busy running the post-office."

LIQUOR PROBLEM IS FORUM TOPIC

Mrs. John A. Erquhart, prominent in woman's club circles is speaking tonight on "The Present Status of the Liquor Problem," at the Dr. Frederick W. Roman forum in the Temple theater, Third and Bush streets, at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Erquhart is former state president of the California Federation of Women's clubs, is on the law enforcement committee of California and is one of a committee of four for the United States for the consideration for temperance education.

As great if not a greater problem exists in the present line-up of the liquor question, than existed during prohibition, according to Dr. Roman, who asserts that this problem must be carefully studied by both wetts and drys.

"Even the wetts admit the problem is a serious one and calls for sound and sane judgment and co-operation in its solution. Mrs. Erquhart is in a position to present the problem fairly and to lead a discussion of the merits of the Prohibition-Rockefeller plan which is one of the means advocated for its ultimate solution," said Dr. Roman.

The public is invited to the lecture and the open forum.

we will go a bit more intelligently."

This was the only item in controversy in the bill, the third of the nine regular appropriation measures to pass the senate this session, the other two being the Navy and Interior bills. It now goes back to the house for action on the senate change.

The bill, carrying $150,000,000 for the treasury in the next fiscal year and $670,000,000 for the post office first was passed without a word of debate in less than ten minutes.

Senator Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, later entered and protested the speed with which the measure was passed. He demanded the senate state its position on whether the government should engage in postal manufacture and repair work in competition with private industry.

This started a debate in which Senator Bailey, Democrat, of North Carolina, who, like Vandenberg, comes from a furniture manufacturing state, protested against the government taking any "step toward Socialism."

He said the way things are going the issue of Socialism would be met.

"It is the way to help the unemployed, then it's also the way to destroy the republic," he asserted.

Seven Republicans, twenty-six Democrats and the lone Farmer-Labor member voted for the West Virginia project, while fifteen Republicans and fourteen Democrats opposed it.

ARRAIGN TRIAD
FOR ROBBERY
AFTER HOLDUP

Three Mexican youths were arraigned in justice court this morning on robbery charges following conflicting stories given of two asserted holdups Sunday night at West First and Sullivan streets.

Manuel Estrada, 18, 1006 Logan street, Albert Garcia, 18, of the same address and Chris Galardo, 22, 1044 Lincoln street, were cited to appear for a preliminary hearing on February 28 at 9 a. m. and bail was fixed at $3000 each by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

Luis Flores, 1205 West Second street, swore out the complaint against the three Mexicans although police have not cleared up the mystery surrounding the alleged attack on him. He claims that he gave his three friends a ride from Santa Ana to Santa Anita and while returning, with Galardo driving, he was attacked, beaten and left in the road.

At virtually the same time and at the same place, Ygnacio Arebalo, R. D. Huntington, told police he was stopped by four Mexicans, robbed of 50 cents and a watch, and then left in the road and his car taken. Signs of a fight and blood stains were found by police and the car was located a short distance away.

Flores had not reported his holdup until he was placed under suspicion by police when he came to look at the abandoned car of Arebalo. He then mentioned Galardo who implicated the other two Mexicans. All told different stories of the fight. Flores found his car yesterday on East Pine street.

The fact that Arebalo recognized Galardo as one of his assailants has led police to believe that the four Mexicans stopped Arebalo, robbed him, abandoned his car and then robbed and deserted Flores to escape suspicion, according to reports.

Connolly Denies Statement On CWA
Secret Quiz Here

A statement in a Los Angeles paper this morning, attributed to Maj. Donald H. Connolly, Los Angeles county CWA director, in connection with the appointment of an intelligence unit under Capt. Don Wilkie, of Laguna Beach, that a secret investigation of "amazing irregularities" in the CWA in Los Angeles and Orange counties had been in progress under Wilkie's direction, was denied this afternoon by Major Connolly. He said he had made no such statement and that he had not seen it. Captain Wilkie could not be reached for a statement on the matter.

CONDITION OF CRASH
VICTIM IS CRITICAL

Still unconscious and in a critical condition, William A. Kirkpatrick, 22, Los Angeles, is lying near death in the Orange County hospital from injuries received Sunday when his motorcycle overturned in the Santa Ana canyon a short distance east of Knight's camp.

It was not known what caused the motorcycle to overturn but Kirkpatrick was caught beneath it. He received a fractured skull, fractured and mangled foot, mangled arm and severe cuts and bruises.

CITY BAND PREPARES FOR SUMMER SEASON

The Santa Ana Municipal band, under the direction of Leland Auer and management of Harry L. Hanson, is rehearsing weekly in preparation for a series of summer concerts. It was announced today by Mrs. Russell Rowland, rehearsals are held Wednesday nights at Tenth and Main streets.

Mrs. Rowland expressed the opinion that under the capable direction of the new director, considerable promise is shown for an interesting summer season.

Police News

The stolen bicycle of John Reeson, 325 South Ross street was found yesterday at the Excelsior creamery and was returned to the owner.

Police and sheriff's officers have been asked to search for Mr. and Mrs. James Beltrun and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Rubalcava of Los Angeles who have been missing since Sunday after visiting with Alfred Lopez in Anaheim.

Jesus Castro, 24, Artesia street, commencing a six month jail term for petty theft, was rebuked yesterday for immigration officers and will be deported to Mexico.

W. O. Curry, 217 South Daisy street, had five hens stolen Sunday night. He valued the loss at $6.25, police reported.

Three hens were stolen and one was left in the yard with its feathers pulled off by a thief who entered the yard of Angel Ornellas, 217 Franklin street, Sunday night. It was reported to police.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from Walgreen's, McCoy Drug or your druggist 1 oz. Parmitin (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1/2 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmitin is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian Tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing, rumbling, hissing noises in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.

oath of office that caused his father to defy the might of the German army in 1914.

"I swear to observe the constitution and law of the people of Belgium and to maintain the national independence and territorial integrity."

On Saturday King Leopold and his consort, Astrid, now queen of the Belgians, will ride in state procession through the capital.

The occasion of the oath taking and the state procession will bring the sole, brief breaks in the six months' period of official mourning that ends August 17.

One of Leopold's first acts will be to convene a ministerial council and to prepare for early promulgation a crown declaration outlining the policies of his reign.

There was a Communist demonstration in favor of a republic last night. Police dispersed it quietly.

THOMPSON HEADS
CITRUS DEPARTMENT

Hugh Thompson, Olive rancher, was elected chairman of the citrus department of the Orange County Farm Bureau at a meeting of the department yesterday afternoon in the Farm Bureau offices at 61 1/2 North Main street.

He succeeds Harold Brewer, of Villa Park, who was forced to resign as head of the department because of press of other duties, it was announced.

Considerable time was spent during the afternoon session in formulating a program for the year which the citrus department will follow. Details of the program will be announced when the program is completed, according to Felton Browning, president of the Farm Bureau.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

Upon being told that death was imminent a great leader replied "when I am safe." He voiced the faith of a brave man who had learned to trust his God.
However frequently you seem to fail, you can face the prospect of death with a like assurance if you are striving day by day to live true to His guidance.
Give rein to your trust in His promise "always I am with you and My grace is sufficient for you."

TRANSACTION DETAILS TOLD IN THEFT CASE

Details of how Sam Hill, former Santa Ana grocer and W. L. Nix, secured his note for $600 were related on the witness stand yesterday afternoon and this morning by Bernard Loyalty during the trial of Hill, accused with Nix in a grand jury indictment of four counts of grand theft and four counts of violating the State Corporate Securities act. Later witnesses testified that the note for $600 and another for $450 were used by the accused men to purchase automobiles.

Loyalty testified that Hill and Nix came to see him and secured a note for $600 telling him that it would be used to erect a hotel at the mine they were operating. They gave Loyalty a certificate of stock in the Copperconda Mines as a guarantee that they would return the $600 within 90 days. They agreed to return the money but told Loyalty that he would still retain an interest in the mine.

Vern Speich, former Santa Ana automobile dealer testified that he took the $600 note from Hill and Nix in exchange for an automobile. B. J. Koster, user car dealer also testified that he took a $450 note also secured from Loyalty in exchange for an automobile. The contract to purchase the automobile from him was signed by Hill, according to Koster's testimony.

John G. Clark, deputy in the state corporation commissioner's office testified he had searched the records of his office and found that no permit to sell an interest in the July Lode Mine claims or Beatty Gold Mine company had ever been requested or granted. He also testified that no permit to sell Copperconda Mines company securities had ever been granted.

Editors of Orange county newspapers will discuss agricultural problems, particularly as related to rates charged by power companies, with J. J. Deuel, director of the law and utility department of the California Farm Bureau Federation, at a meeting to be held Thursday noon in the Green Cat cafe, Santa Ana. It was announced today by Felton Browning, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau.

Invitations have been sent out to all editors of Orange county newspapers, Browning said, to meet with Deuel at the luncheon meeting.

Deuel will spend two days, Thursday and Friday, working in Orange county. He is making a tour of the state explaining his and his department's work regarding attempts to secure reduction of rates of power and utility companies.

A general meeting of Farm Bureau officers and membership team workers will be held Thursday night in the Garden Grove Women's clubhouse at 6:30 o'clock, when Deuel will be the speaker, discussing Farm Bureau activities and affairs. The meeting will start with a dinner.

He will spend most of Friday working with various Farm Bureau groups, especially the membership, rural credit and legislative committees.

Three men and a woman were booked at the county jail last night and this morning for drunkenness.

A woman giving the name of Mrs. Myrtle DuPlantz, 25, 807 West Fifth street, and H. Kanston, 33, of Santa Ana, were arrested by Officers Joe Murrillo and A. L. Steward at 2 a. m. today while parked in a car at First and Baker streets. They were booked at the jail for drunkenness, and were in a very intoxicated condition, officers reported.

Blaine Cox, 39, 703 West Third street, was arrested for intoxication by Detective Sergeant C. W. Wolford at 9 a. m. today while walking at Third and Main streets. He had a gallon jug of wine in a gunny sack over his shoulder, according to reports.

Officers Horace Lacey and Gus Barnes of Placentia booked Sallome Perez, 42, Placentia, at the jail for drunkenness at 5:30 last night.

Careless thieves who dropped part of their loot while walking to their parked car completely ransacked the home of P. J. Hallicy, 809 South Garnsey, between 5 and 6 last night. It was reported to police.

Hallicy said he found some gloves and a bar of soap on the front walk when he returned home. Every room in the house had been searched but the only articles missing were linens, radio bench and a vase.

Entrance to the house had been gained after a kitchen window was broken and unlocked.

HAT IN RING

Judge C. C. Cravath, of Laguna Beach, nationally known former baseball star, today announced his candidacy for the office of sheriff of Orange county.

JUROR FOUND WHO HAD READ ABOUT CASE

Something new in the experience of courtroom attaches and newspapermen was discovered yesterday during the selection of a jury to hear evidence against W. L. Hicks, Santa Ana grocer charged with five statutory offenses against young school girls.

A juror who had read all about the case in newspapers and had formed an opinion was discovered. As a rule prospective jurors have not read of the case or formed an opinion, according to their answers during examination.

The juror who informed the court that he knew all about the case and had formed an opinion "that wouldn't do any good," was A. W. Dunning. He was summoned as one of a special venire of five jurors. During questioning by the court he admitted knowing Hicks, having knowledge of the case and possession of prejudice. He was excused by Superior Judge G. K. Scovel.

Five little girls, against whom Hicks is alleged to have committed offenses were in court and testified this morning. Before the first of the girls took the witness stand Judge Scovel ordered all juveniles from the courtroom. They testified as to the acts alleged to have been committed by Hicks who already is serving one year in jail as a part of the terms of probation granted for a similar offense.

STUDY GROUPS TO MEET AT CHURCH

Speaking before the assembly of the third Church night of the First Methodist church series tomorrow night Mrs. Jennie Lasby Tammann will discuss "Tools for Building the Future." This is another address in the series of talks she is giving on "Facing a New Era." The assembly address will follow the 6 o'clock dinner to be served this week by the Home Builders and Amistead classes.

After the assembly addresses the various classes will move to their rooms for discussion of the subjects being considered this year. George Gleason will address one group on "What Social Adjustments Do Young Parents Face?" The Rev. Russell C. Stroup will lead the young people in discussing "The Menace of Modern Materialism." "The Effect of Alcohol on the Brain and Nervous System" will be discussed by Mrs. Mary Muffley Morehouse. Dr. George Warner will speak on the subject "Human Suffering." Mrs. Helen McArthur will discuss "Why Worship in the Church School?"

APPORTION $99,000 TO DISTRICT FUNDS

Apportionment of $99,000 from the unapportioned auto license fund to the various road district funds was authorized this morning by the board of supervisors on recommendation of County Highway Engineer Nat Neff.

The apportionment was as follows: First district, $40,000; second district, $25,000; Third district, $15,000; Fourth district, $10,000; Fifth district, $15,000; and $20,000 to the No. 7 County Auto License fund which is used principally for maintenance of paved county highways.

All the money, it was said, is to be used for maintenance work and small road extensions and its use has been provided for in the budget for this year.

JUDGE CRAVATH ENTERS RACE FOR SHERIFF

Declaring that "Orange county needs a sheriff who is not tied up with any political clique," Judge C. C. "Gavy" Cravath, of Laguna Beach, who was baseball's home run king in the days before Babe Ruth, today formally announced his candidacy for the office of sheriff.

Cravath has been justice of the peace at Laguna Beach since 1926 and city judge since 1927 with the exception of one year. He came to the beach city in 1923. During his baseball career he led the National league in batting as an outfielder for the Phillies.

Cravath issued the following statement: "I am not looking for any glory in the office but my experience has taught me that nothing can be done well without teamwork. The trouble in Orange county has been that the police department in the smaller communities have not been given full credit for the work they have done in apprehending criminals and the chief credit has gone to the sheriff's office. That has caused some feeling of resentment.

"Orange county needs a sheriff who is not tied up with any political clique and who can administer the office free from all obligations. If elected I will run the office in the best interests of the county, no matter who is hit. I believe in law enforcement for all classes alike. I want to say right now that if there are any individuals, combinations or organizations afraid to have the law enforced, I am not seeking their support."

BUENA PARK

Mrs. G. S. Bias of Santa Ana, is a house guest of Mrs. J. W. Schiller at her home on Kingman avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fish and children, Elizabeth and Willard, visited Mrs. Fish's brother, Clair Stewart, and family, in Sompton Sunday.

Lamarr Resigns As Custodian Of County Garage

The resignation of F. E. LaMarr as custodian of the County garage was accepted this morning by the board of supervisors. Supervisors John Mitchell of the Second district and LeRoy Lyons of the Third declined to vote on the grounds that they did not have all details of the reasons for LaMarr's resignation.

Supervisor George Jeffrey, who submitted the resignation, said that LaMarr, who has been garage custodian for the past 11 years is planning to spend a vacation on the desert. He said that there would be no one employed to fill the vacancy. Kenneth Miller is being promoted to take charge of the garage and George Bremer will be given charge of the shop at the county yards. An extra man will be employed when work justifies the temporary help, Jeffrey said.

CANTANDO CLUB CONCERT TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

A Cantando club will give the second concert of the club's season, in the Orange Union High school auditorium at 8:15 tonight.

An unusually fine program is promised, as the men of the club and their director and accompanist, Leon Bickles and Miss Ruth Armstrong, having worked for many weeks in preparation for this event. They will introduce as guest artist, Allan Watson, prominent Los Angeles baritone, who with Erma Lucas as his accompanist, will sing two groups.

Among special features will be the chorus number "The High Barbaree" (Armbruster) with W. F. LeCraw singing a solo part, and the sacred number "Adoremus Te" (Antiphonal) by La Palestrina, with off stage assistance given by the Elks' Double quartet, Messrs. A. J. Garraway, W. H. Callenne, P. L. Gibbs, H. P. Filer, F. H. Pierce, K. H. Sutherland, W. C. Vieira and J. A. Miller.

LIGHT RAINS BENEFICIAL TO AGRICULTURE

Fair weather for tonight and tomorrow was predicted today by the United States Weather Bureau following a gentle rain which boosted Orange county totals during the night.

Santa Ana received .40 inches of rain during the storm, bringing the seasonal total to 7.71 inches as compared with 8.62 inches at this time last year.

While the rainfall in Orange county was not sufficient to constitute an irrigation, it was of considerable benefit to Orange county agriculturists, according to Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg. It was the first general measurable rainfall since the first of the year when the heavy rains fell.

The precipitation proved of especial benefit to farmers in loosening soil so that cover crops could be turned under without need for irrigation to accomplish this, Wahlberg pointed out. The rain also was of benefit to shallow-rooted crops, such as grain, cabbage, cauliflower, strawberries and other products.

Most communities in Orange county still are short of the total rainfall at this time last year, there being but seven places where more rain has fallen so far this year.

The heaviest rainfall was in Limestone canyon, where .70 inches of rain fell.

WASHINGTON

WEEDING

The whole story of Mr. Roosevelt's anti-graft campaign has not been made public, and probably never will be.

The public display is only the half of it. On the inside the president has been getting rid of a little group of his so-called friends and political allies who have let themselves get talked about in connection with government expenditures.

It is one of those things seldom mentioned in public. A man cannot always prove that a friend has been faithless, even though he knows it to be true.

In such cases it is usually advisable to find a way of getting rid of the friend, without any unpleasantness.

PINNACLE

The wedding has been so quietly done in some instances that even the suspected friends are not quite sure why they were pulled up by the roots.

In other cases subtle hints have been dropped from the White House. The victim has suddenly noticed them, developed a sudden cough and banished himself voluntarily.

There is one case which indicates that even the highest friendship failed to save the victim.

The inner circles have noted the moves and are winking at each other. They accept the developments as proof of the sincerity behind Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to rid his administration of the parasites which inevitably follow a political leader and trade on his name.

MYSTERY

Norman Davis secretly obtained from the German embassy recently a visa on a passport to Germany. He is the big disarmament man whose patience has not yet been exhausted, although he has received a cold shoulder in every chancellery in Europe.

The natural suspicion is that Davis is going to Germany to try his disarmament wiles on Hitler.

When the news gets out, the excuse probably will be offered that Davis is also chairman of a Krueger and Toll bond committee and that he is going to Germany in connection with Krueger and Toll.

BABY

Another reason for the Davis trip may be those rumors that Germany is going to recognize Japan's baby state Manchukuo.

All the world has declined to accept that baby socially. If Germany suggests it, it will strengthen the suggestion of an alliance between Berlin and Tokyo.

Our economic experts have noticed that Germany imported $35,000,000 worth of Manchukuan soy beans last year.

ART

The CWA subsidy to starving artists went over big.

Government officials are trooping to room 158 of the treasury building daily to get the pick of thousands of paintings, drawings and etchings for their offices.

Interior Secretary Ives got four of the best oils of Boulder Dam. Treasury Secretary Morgenthau helped himself. So did CWA Administrator Harry Hopkins.

A jobless sign painter in a mid-western city submitted a quite competent oil landscape of houses in a poor neighborhood. It was the first work of that kind he had ever done.

Some of the other work may remain in room 158 indefinitely.

TAXES

The tax bill will not be changed materially in the senate.

Senators have looked over the measure being passed now in the house and they agree it is a fairly good bill. That makes it certain that the final form of the law will be substantially what the treasury department and house worked out.

NOTES

Several of Mr. Farley's friends are reported to have fainted when they read that James J. Walker had been appointed clerk of the court in the Panama Canal Zone. They were revived upon learning that it is a different Jimmy Walker.

The new Japanese ambassador said when he presented his credentials to Mr. Roosevelt that anything Japan does in Manchuria will be in the interest of peace.

You will recall that the attack on Shanghai was also staged in the interest of peace.

The house recently spent 40 minutes arguing a $7000 appropriation for another wild life investigation, the same length of time it required to pass the $850,000,000 CWA bill.

Statistics coming from the commerce department these days appear to be very fair. If there is any censorship, it is not apparent.

Influential Democrats are coming up in the world. They are trying to purchase the old Whitney home here to house a new national Democratic club.

Speaking of the NRA wage scale, the extra-territorial court conducted by the U. S. in China hires a court crier whom it pays $144 a year about 40 cents a day.

NEW YORK

VICTORY

New York banks are in halting distance of an especially welcome victory.

Their fight to extend the provisions of temporary deposit insurance and kill off the permanent plan supposed to become effective in July is practically won.

If the Vandenberg bill to this end passes Congress it should have several important effects.

For one thing you can expect a definite upturn in commercial credit. The big banks had a real fear of the unlimited liabilities imposed on them by the permanent plan. With that load off their minds they will cock a much cheerier ear toward requests for loans.

A leading banker comments: "If the government really wants to encourage credit expansion, it's certainly on the right track now." The banks have been quietly trying to register this point all along with their best Washington contacts but most of them were frankly surprised to learn they had made so much progress.

RESERVES

New York sponsors of a campaign for more paper money haven't by any means given up the ship. Their latest wrinkle—which may get an introduction in congress—is that Federal Reserve member banks should be required to keep up their own reserves against deposits in cash in their vaults. Such a measure would also dampen the Federal Reserve's prestige some more. The move has no chance of getting anywhere but it represents a viewpoint that continues strong and active.

FRANCE

French leaders with close European contacts say that the Austrian upheaval may turn out to be a swell break for France. It gives the French government—whether Doumergue's or another—a chance to make a dramatic stand against the Hitler menace. A bold front on this score would do more to quell popular unrest than anything else.

France is due for strong moral support on the Austrian question from her former European allies. But wise money is laid 50 to 1 that Austria cannot escape Nazification.

FRICTION

New York gets private reports that the new German workers' law is causing a lot of trouble inside the Nazi party. The terms employer and employee will be eliminated—industry and labor will be more branches of the Nazi machine.

Goebbels—the Socialist of the out—has the support of the entire radical wing for his pithy speeches against what he calls reactionary conservatism. By that he means Goering, who is supported by industrialists.

The relations of the "dwarf" and the "bull"—as Goebbels and Goering call each other—have become more strained than ever over this issue. The evidence indicates that talk of Nazi unity is 99 per cent bunk.

DYNAMITE

The inside dope here is that Hitler made the Franco-Russian

YOUNG PEOPLE OF CHURCH HOLD PEACE SERVICE

Morning service Sunday at the First Methodist church was turned over to the young people's societies of the church who presented a peace program. The speakers, with the exception of Dr. George A. Warner, the pastor, were college students and in their talks stressed the fact that youth is through with war.

Roy Seaver, president of the young people's societies, presided during the service and introduced the speakers. He opened the meeting with a call to peace in which he urged people to put aside foolish prejudices concerning war and think clearly of what war really was and what Jesus bade the people to do.

Charles Warner speaking on "War and Peace" declared that conditions trending toward war are worse today than they were in 1914. In his talk he said in part: "There never has been so much talk about war since the Versailles treaty as there is today and it is talk that leads to war. Look at our history books in school. They idolize war. There is more internal strife today than ever before through economic oppression and unemployment and the lack of government responsibility. In addition the black cloud of fascism is almost covering the sky." Referring to Europe the speaker declared that the League of Nations "has gone out like a candle" and Hungary is cheating on the Versailles treaty. Russia and Japan, he said claim that it is only a matter of weeks before war breaks out there. Should this happen, the speaker said, quoting Mussolini, it will involve practically every other major nation.

"Do you realize what the next war will be like?" he asked. In answer he said, "In the last war we moved from the ground to the air. In the next war non-combatants will be in as much danger as the men in front line trenches. Airplanes can now drop bacterial bombs which will spread dread diseases over a nation in a very little time. And after the next world war social collapse."

"Conditions are worse today than in 1914 and the militarists are in charge of our government, because we wished to let the people of the United States know through posting copies of the Kellogg-Briand pact in every postoffice, that they have signed a law doing away with war, we had to go to court. Imagine it, we were not allowed to tell the people what they had signed."

"The only way out for Christians is to be conscientious objectors, and practice non-violence. Now as never before should we stand up and courageously advocate the ideals of Jesus."

"Military Training in U.S.A." was discussed by Miss Janette Lutes. She told of Students Hamilton and Reynolds who were refused admittance to the University of California at Los Angeles because they were conscientious objectors. "The fathers of both these students," she said, "are Methodist ministers and have paid taxes for education in this state for many years. These boys were standing on the resolution adopted at the last Methodist general conference in which it was asked that Methodist young people be given exemption from military training both in times of peace and war, as are the Society of Friends."

John Beardsley, attorney for the two students has carried the case to the state supreme court where the university has not yet filed an answer. The church and young people of the Methodist church intend to carry the fight into the supreme court of the United States, she said. She also told of the action of students at Depauw university in requesting the war department to withdraw. At Ohio university, she said 32 students refused to take military training and at Berkeley the students are forming societies to refuse military training.

"When the young men in military training at U.S.A. are asked why they fight," she said, "they do not know. I tell you youth has exploded the theories of profit and the militarists. In Minnesota university when compulsory military training was done away with enrollment increased and the number enrolled for military training dropped 66 per cent. Does this not prove that you have to make us drill? Youth is through with the war machine."

Dr. Warner reviewed the action of Bishop Baker and his committee in the Hamilton and Reynolds case stating "There is the utmost co-operation between the university and the Methodist church, inasmuch as both of us wish to clear this up once and for all and as cheaply as possible."

"In Ohio university where 32 refused to take training, the university appointed the head of the military training, paid by U. S. government, to form a board to select the 32 students."

Mrs. Fanny, in face of that awful prejudiced committee, 16 of them were able to convince the board they were conscientious objectors; nine of them were expelled from school, and out of those nine four or five of them were sons of Methodist Episcopal ministers. Also I want you to notice that both Hamilton and Reynolds are sons of Methodist ministers. This looks suspiciously like a drive of the militarists against the Methodist general conference, and if it is going to be a fight between militarism and Methodism, then I'm going to choose Methodism."

Books Reviewed

At Club Meeting

FULLERTON, Feb. 20.—Members of the Fullerton Afternoon Reading club enjoyed a delightful afternoon yesterday as guests of Mrs. A. L. Anderson, a member, at her ranch home near Placentia.

The program consisted of review of two modern books, "Germany Turns Up the Clock," by Mower, the review made by Mrs. V. G. Irwin F. Landis, Santa Ana, and "All Wilderness," written by O'Neill, and reviewed by Mrs. Irene Jarvis.

Mrs. A. H. Koch presided.

DISTINGUISHED ARMY, NAVY OFFICERS TO ATTEND ANNUAL MILITARY BALL ON THURSDAY

High-ranking officers of the United States Army and Navy have accepted invitations to attend the Sixth Annual Military ball to be staged under the auspices of Jack Fisher chapter, Disabled American Veterans of the World War, on Washington's birthday Thursday night at the Valencia ballroom between Santa Ana and Anaheim. It was announced today.

Mrs. Jack Fisher, widow of the late Jack Fisher, Santa Ana, after whom the D. A. V. chapter was named, was in charge of this assignment.

General Frank L. Winn, wartime commander of the 89th Division, will be the guest of honor. His presence has been the incentive for the acceptance of many officers of that division to attend the function. Maj. Harry O. Warren, Anaheim, Lt.-Col. M. B. Wellington, Capt. W. R. Postin, Los Angeles, and Lt. Glen F. Blair, of Phoenix, will be present to greet their former commander. Several former members of the division from the Southern and Western divisions will be present, including Col. Nelson M. Holderman, Orange county hero and wearer of the Congressional Medal of Honor D. S. C. and many medals from foreign governments; Majors Frank Newton and John Martens from Anaheim, C. Bert Allen from San Diego, and Ed Isaac from San Jose, all are holders of the D. S. C. and Lt. J. Ben Blee, Santa Ana, awarded the American Medal for distinguished service by the Navy.

Representing the battle fleet from San Pedro will be Lieutenant T. C. Miller of U. S. S. Maryland, and Ensigns L. W. Mang and C. vania. Lieutenant S. "Pennsylvania" Irwin F. Landis, Santa Ana, and B. P. Donnelly, Dana Point, will be Orange county standard bearers of the Navy.

Other military officials expected to attend include Capt. Don Wilkie, Laguna Beach; Capt. C. A. Gillette, Fort MacArthur; A. D. Borden, Los Angeles; Col. H. G. Upham, Covina; and Col. W. F. Nicholson, Charles L. Phillips and Maj. H. C. Woodward, Santa Ana.

The D. A. V. organization will present Past National Commander William Conley, Los Angeles, and State Commander John F. Burke, Riverside, while the Auxiliary will be represented by Mrs. Irene Pinney, Los Angeles, state commander. In the absence of Department Commander Homer Chailaux, Claude Potter, Orange County Council commander, will represent the American Legion while Mrs. Marjorie Peabody will be the American Legion Auxiliary representative.

A generous reception has been accorded all members of the ticket committee and the largest attendance of previous years is expected to be exceeded at the Valencia Ballroom Thursday evening. Those desiring tickets may procure them from members of the Citizens committee, Jack Fisher chapter and Auxiliary members, V. L. Brown, 609 West Fourth street or Harry Hanson, First National bank. They will also be on sale at the ballroom February 22.

The dance will begin at 9 p. m.

Thirteen states reduced the registration fee for passenger cars during 1933, and several others are contemplating this step to encourage car ownership.

TALK GIVEN ON MODERN FRANCE BY MRS. GLENN

Day to day living in France as compared with that in the United States, was made real for Santa Ana Business and Professional Women when they heard a talk at their dinner last night in the Doris Kathryn, by Mrs. Thomas H. Glenn, a native of France.

Introduced to the clubwomen by Mrs. John A. Tessmann, Mrs. Glenn fascinated her audience by her clear summing up of points both of difference and of contact between the two countries.

She only touched upon France in relation to international affairs, devoting the greater part of her talk to the country itself as one of small property holders, small merchants, and everything in its business life on a far smaller scale than that to which the people of the United States are accustomed.

Capitalists are almost nonexistent she declared, while the department stores as every American city knows them, really exist in Paris alone.

Since practically all industries are centralized and under government rule, this extends also to the school system, and private schools and universities exist only for the very young student. Diplomas of the public or government schools, are the only ones of recognized value.

Unemployment is practically nonexistent, she declared, and that only in the luxury industries, designed to appeal particularly to the American buyer. Since Americans are not traveling and spending money as they once did, these industries are actually affected.

Other matters touched upon in the wide variety of her information, were the chamber of deputies, the definitely marked social classifications, the minor power of Communism, the ridicule given to Fascism, the slight interest in the Due de Guise and the Royalists, the small probability of a dictatorship in France, and a score of other subjects equally interesting.

In the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Marie Fowler, president, one new member, Miss Isabel Lindsay, of the Roosevelt teaching staff, and four guests were introduced. Mrs. Robert Northcross of this city; Mrs. Margaret Douglas of Glasgow, Scotland and Mrs. Margaret Ludlow, of Greeley, Colo.

Mrs. Adelaide Cochran, March chairman, announced National Business and Professional Women's week, March 11 to 17. Santa Ana club will observe it with a special dinner on March 12.

The American travelers have been replaced by Germans, but they are not money spenders as people of this country were.

The racial love of liberty was explained as a leading factor in the recent troubles in France, also the many political parties, and dissatisfaction with the existing tax conditions. She explained very clearly the reasons for choosing troops rather than the police, in quelling the mobs.

ADVANTAGES OF CODIFYING CITY LAWS OUTLINED

Citing the advantages of classifying and codifying city ordinances, Mayor Mike Tellefson of Culver City appeared before the city council yesterday and displayed samples of work he had done in other cities.

Tellefson pointed out that many city ordinances are antiquated, amended and remanded, repealed and forgotten, but still carried on the city rule books. He declared that even the city clerk could not tell which ordinances were in effect because they had never been sorted out, the ones not in effect removed, and useless ones either amended or repealed.

The city official offered to classify and make recommendations on Santa Ana's ordinances and have them printed in a handy looseleaf style for $750. No action was taken on the proposal, although City Attorney Clyde Downing indicated that the same task might be accomplished at a lower cost directly by the city. He approved the plan of codifying the statutes and suggested that it would be advantageous for the city clerk, city attorney, police department or anyone else having cause to refer to city ordinances, to have copies of the completed work.

DEAD DOCTOR HEALS STOMACH AILMENTS

A weird story is told of a well-known specialist reaching from the grave to cure stomach suffering. Years ago this doctor created a prescription for stomach ulcers, acid stomach, gas pains, heartburn, indigestion, bloating, belching and other symptoms when caused by excess acid. Then the good doctor died. But his name brought fame after death as one who told another of his wonderful prescription. Over 54,000 people alone have written grateful letters, telling of their recoveries. This prescription is now known to hundreds of thousands as the Uda's Treatment. Any sufferer may receive a free treatment by simply sending name and address to Uda, Inc., 2658 Foot-Schulze Bldg., St. Paul, Minn. Write today.—Adv.

BOARD APPROVES ORANGE ANNEXATION

Annexation to the city of Orange of approximately 17 acres of land, including the recently constructed South Glassell street park, was authorized today by the board of supervisors. The action was taken on motion of Supervisor W. C. Jerome, seconded by Supervisor George Jeffrey.

Today was the time set for the hearing of protests to the proposed annexation and the action was taken following a report that there was neither written or verbal protest. The land annexed includes 14 acres comprising the park and approximately three acres of land between the park site and the present city limits.

WARD'S STORE PLANS SPECIAL FASHION SHOW

E. L. Lucas, manager of the Santa Ana Montgomery Ward store today announced his plans for participating in Santa Ana's Fashion Show to be held Friday and Saturday of this week.

The corner window of the store at Fourth and Main will be used for the show instead of holding it in the Fashion department.

Models will enter on the Main street side and follow the runway through to East Fourth street entrance. About 12 models will display women's and misses' dresses, swaggar suits, coats, hats, hosiery, lingerie, shoes, etc. Infants and children's dresses, also mens and boys' clothing will be modeled.

An additional feature will be the dresses made up from yard goods using only materials sold at Ward's. A complete description of each garment modeled will be broadcast over Ward's public address system.

Lucas also promised some humorous entertainment. Two shows will be given daily—2 to 4 p. m., 7 to 9 p. m., Friday and Saturday, February 23 and 24.

CODIFICATION OF CITY LAWS LEAGUE TOPIC

Problems of codification of city ordinances, civil service for cities, liquor control and the CWA will be the principal topics of discussion at the monthly meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities to be held in the Anaheim Elks' clubhouse Thursday evening.

President A. C. Hasenjaeger announced today that Robert Ramsey, director of the CWA in Orange county, would explain the new phase of the government projects and outline the process of demobilization now being carried out.

Ray Thompson, assistant city attorney of Fullerton, will lead a discussion on the codification of city ordinances and the possible formation of a uniform ordinance for all cities in the county. It is pointed out that there are so many conflicting statutes in the various cities that some attempt to make uniform laws would be welcomed.

It is expected that the survey of the proposed civil service proposition for firemen and policemen will have been received from the University of California by Thursday so that this topic can be brought up at the meeting. Santa Ana firemen and policemen are leading the fight in Orange county to secure civil service and Mayor Paul Witmer submitted their proposed ordinance to Prof. Samuel Mays of the bureau of governmental research at Berkeley for study.

Witmer will present a report on the recent meeting of the board of directors of the California League of Municipalities in San Francisco. He represented the county league at the meeting.

Mayor Clyde Watson of Orange is expected to give a brief report on the San Francisco meeting he attended recently to discuss liquor control.

Mayor Charles Mann of Anaheim will welcome the city officials at the meeting, which will begin with a banquet at 6:30 p. m.

STREET GOSPEL MEETINGS UP FOR DISCUSSION

Merits of evangelistic meetings in the business district were discussed by city council members last night as one of the highlights of the meeting, following the application of the Four Square Gospel church to conduct weekly meetings at Fourth and Bush streets.

The Rev. D. F. Myers, pastor of the church, asked that his church be accorded the same privileges as the Salvation Army in conducting services on Saturday nights. He said that few organizations are willing to assume the task of spreading the gospel on the streets and that his group would not take up a collection, would not obstruct traffic and would present orderly meetings.

Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger opposed the application on the grounds that it would set a precedent for meetings which might prove objectionable and would congest the streets. He said he had no objection to the work that would be accomplished but could not vote for the measure when a similar one was denied several weeks ago.

He was emphatically opposed by Councilman A. F. LeGaye who supported the contention of Rev. Myers that the work would benefit society, that the meetings could be stopped if they proved undesirable, and that if one group was given the right to preach in the streets, others should not be barred.

The matter was finally taken under advisement for one week.

CONTRACTORS WILL MEET HERE TONIGHT

A regular monthly meeting of the Orange County General Contractors association will be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the Orange County Builder's Exchange building to discuss code authority and provisions of the basic code for the construction industry. It was announced today by George A. Barrows, secretary.

Contractor-members of the organization had planned to attend a mass meeting in Los Angeles tonight, but inasmuch as the event was postponed, it was decided to hold a meeting here for the same purpose.

Allison Honer, president, will preside and conduct the discussions on the code.

School Children Guests At Party

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 20.—Marianne Corbett was hostess to a group of her young school friends at a party held recently in the ranch home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Corbett.

Lively games were played during the evening hours and refreshments served at the close of the evening carried out the red and white valentine theme.

Mrs. Corbett assisted her daughter in all the hostess details for the party. Miss Margery Cooper, Marianne's teacher at the grammar school was a special guest at the party.

DRUNKENNESS OF CHILDREN, LIQUOR SALE TO MINORS REVEALED IN SCHOOL REPORT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—"Appalling conditions" regarding children in beer parlors and drinking establishments were revealed today in a report made by Elvin F. Clark, assistant supervisor of attendance in Los Angeles schools, and Cliff Hellyer, special investigator.

Shocking conditions of children under the age of 18 in an intoxicated condition drinking alcoholic beverages in Los Angeles beer parlors were described in the 58-page report submitted to Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Bouelle.

Under the direction of Guy Hoyt, head coordinator of the city school system, two investigators visited 209 drinking establishments throughout the school district over a period of five weeks.

Many Under Age In thirty-five of these establishments they reported children under 18 drinking in conditions described by Hoyt "worse than the old saloon days." Twenty per cent of the patrons of beer parlors, the report estimated, were under 21 years of age.

In a beer parlor on North Main street a 13-year-old child and an 8-year-old child were found asleep on a beer keg in the rear, while many of the patrons in front were in an intoxicated condition, the investigators reported.

"There is an appalling number of young people patronizing these establishments, and drinking heavily," the report said. "Police officers in possession of statistics believe there has been a noticeable increase in drinking since liberalization of the laws."

The investigators described visiting a Highland Park beer parlor and finding "one girl, approximately 16 years of age, in a drunken condition." In a Hollywood restaurant "a glass of what appeared to be wine was purchased by a man about 33 years of age, and two girls drank from it."

Young Girls Drunk At a Belvedere Gardens establishment, the report described a boy about 15 years of age, in a drunken condition, while in a beer parlor in the same district "two girls, about 16 or 18, were observed in a very drunken state."

While the report recommended drastic measures be taken to stop sale of liquor to children under 18, it held that "excluding young people 18, 19 or 20 from beer parlors would be a serious loss." Accompanying the report of the investigators were conditions reported by police officers throughout the city and by high school principals and teachers, indicating similar findings in drinking establishments.

BOARD ORDERS MAP OF TAX DISTRICTS

Acting on the request of A. G. Mott, director of the valuation division of the state board of equalization, the board of supervisors this morning instructed County Surveyor Warren K. Hillyard to prepare a county map showing taxing districts.

Mott in a telegram to the board said that such a map is essential to the board's work of returning public utilities property to local taxing jurisdiction for the 1935 assessment.

Hillyard also was authorized to set grade stakes for a sidewalk and curb paving project in Yorba Linda. The paving is being done as a CWA project and the Chamber of Commerce has the contract to set the stakes. This has been done for other unincorporated communities it was pointed out. The job will cost between $50 and $60 and will be paid for from the Third District road fund.

Makes Statement On Liquor Ads

The Orange County Shopping News does not publish nor accept for publication liquor advertisements. It was stated today by Delbert E. Davenport, publisher.

"This statement is made to clarify a situation which arose from a protest made by church organizations concerning publication of liquor advertisements in a new Santa Ana publication called the Santa Ana Shopping News, an enterprise of J. Warren McCommins," Davenport said.

"It is my desire to have all understand that there is no connection between the two and to be absolved of all blame for the other so-called Shopping News, the policies of which are the very opposite to that of the long established Shopping News," he concluded.

COUNCIL NOTES

W. J. Furber, 714 East Fourth street, had his property at 703 East Fourth street posted for special use as a used car lot by the city council and planning commission last night. A joint hearing will be held next Monday for protests.

Robert Williams, 26, 1041 West Second street, had his application for a taxi driver's permit granted by the city council last night, on the motion of Police Commissioner E. G. Warner.

Members of the council were invited to attend the meeting of the Orange County Coast association to be held tonight in San Clemente.

COUNCIL ISSUES DELAY OKAY CONTRACT FOR ON BEER SIGN SUNDAY POLO NEAR CHURCH

Polo at the Municipal Bowl will start next Sunday afternoon following the acceptance of a one year contract from the city at the council meeting last night by President Edward Hall of the Valencia Polo club.

Under the terms of the contract, the club will have the use of the Bowl on alternate Sundays with the city receiving 50 per cent of the gross gate receipts. There is no obligation on the part of the club to continue the games and if no games are held after a reasonable length of time, the contract will be considered void. The city has the sole right to terminate the contract at any time, should the polo events damage the turf or endanger the investment at the Bowl.

Although the city carries liability insurance on the equipment and spectators, the club will be obliged to carry insurance on the players to eliminate the city from any possible damage action. All expenses for improvements must be borne by the club.

Expressing optimism in regard to the coming year due to better business conditions and marketing conditions, F. H. Collins, manager of the Consolidated Orange Growers' association of Orange, reported total payments to grower-members of $428,964.61 for the past year, at an annual meeting today in the basement of the Orange city hall.

Gross receipts totaled $619,309.37, the manager reported. In addition to above payments, a total of $49,215.03 was credited to growers from the revolving fund.

Shipments from the house during the 1933 season amounted to 746 cars of Valencia and 19 cars of miscellaneous varieties, making a total of 765 carloads.

Speakers at the annual meeting were C. E. Skiles, manager of the Orange County Fruit Exchange; A. W. Wohlwend, assistant sales manager, California Fruit Growers' Exchange, and Delton Field, manager of the Growers' Service department, California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

Necessary delays in shipments and quality of fruit in November and December was reflected in the returns, which were below average, the manager reported. Depression in agriculture and all other business contributed to low citrus prices, he said.

The 1934 estimate for the Valencia crop is about 30,000 cars compared with an estimate of 32,000 cars in 1933, the report stated.

"In spite of the unfavorable business conditions during the past season," Collins declared, "there were 58,861 cars of oranges shipped from all sources during day to December. This compares with 54,250 cars for the same period in 1932, or 5611 cars more in 1933, which definitely indicates there is still a good demand for oranges."

Directors of the organization re-elected today were Henry Terry, L. W. Evans, H. W. Walker, H. T. Thomson, W. H. Filppen, Fleetwood Bell, C. D. Holmes, R. Y. Williams and George Sobha.

Council Thanked For Improvements

A letter of appreciation for the beautifying of the city dump along the Santa Ana river and other improvements made there through CWA projects was sent to the city council last night by Frank J. Was on behalf of residents of that section.

Was, prominent Santa Ana banker, complimented the council in promoting the work and cited the advantages of the cleaning up. The council ordered the letter filed and asked City Clerk Ed Vegely to send thanks to Was for his interest in the work.

FRUIT HOUSE SHOWS RETURNS OF $428,964

to the front of the building, according to the letter.

Members of the church and business leaders are understood to disfavor the hanging of the sign across from the church. There is no way for local authorities to prohibit the erection of the brilliant sign as long as it conforms to local electrical regulations. The state board of equalization has the power to ban the sign, however.

No action was taken on the application but the owner will be consulted by the council and the matter referred back at the next meeting.

Although the legality was not questioned, members of the city council indicated yesterday that efforts would be made to discourage the hanging of a large neon sign advertising beer at 610 North Main street, directly across the street from the First Congregational church.

The McFarland Electric company wrote to the council last night and applied for permission to hang the sign, seven feet long and 32 inches high, in front of the beer store of H. C. O'Brien. The sign would not extend across the sidewalk but would be parallel to the front of the building, according to the letter.

CAROLE LOMBARD AGREES WITH Cupid

CUPID: "Hello, angel face, you look as though you'd just washed in morning dew."

CAROLE: "I've just washed in something much nicer—and it's your own prescription, too."

CUPID: "When did I prescribe for you? You've turned men's hearts and heads so often that I can't remember when you needed my advice."

CAROLE: "Well, once upon a time you told me always to use Lux Toilet Soap—and I agree that it's a girl's best friend—those were your words, Dan."

CUPID: "You're not the only girl I've seen surrounded with admirers after taking that same advice of mine. It's my favorite ally, that soap."

CAROLE: "Men certainly do fall for a lovely complexion, don't they, Dan? And I'm certainly much obliged for that tip you gave me years ago."

"MY GREATEST ALLY"

LUX Toilet Soap

And how angelically smooth and fresh is your skin? If your complexion doesn't make hearts flutter, why not do what 9 out of 10 screen stars do—use fragrant, white Lux Toilet Soap? Cupid's prescription will work for you, too—give you a romantically lovely skin, and the love that goes with it.

SOME THINGS YOU HEAR ON A SPORT REPORTER'S BEAT

That C. C. ("Gavvy") Cravath, of Laguna Beach, sometime home run king of major league baseball, is going to run for the office of Orange county sheriff, and that Cravath spells his nickname "Gavvy" although the sportswriters have had it "Gavvy" ever since the big boy began lambasting homers!

That San Juan Capistrano's crack basketball team will be "among those present" at the Trojan club's dinner-meeting here tonight!

That Henry S. Pritchett, the eminent educator who issues those Carnegie Foundation bulletins against football, lives at Pasadena!

That Fullerton's Art Nunn is regarded as the "luckiest coach" in the profession, but as a matter of fact has accomplished much with very little!

I don't know this positively, but they tell me:

That Santa Ana's Saints will be playing some night games at the Municipal Bowl next fall!

That Shortstop Lee Hasebrot and Second Baseman Jim McNabb have been released by the Anaheim Valencias, contingent on the players' ability to catch on with Rialto in the American Night League!

That "Tex" Oliver was none too well satisfied with the set-up when he first went out to Arizona U., but has been appeased by certain changes and will remain at Tucson next fall!

That Bill White, the onetime terror of Jefferson school, made plenty of blood out of his Gilmore Gold Cup road race, the exact attendance having been 74,812, and that he has taken a five-year lease on the Municipal airport track.

That Francis Conrad, Huntington Beach second baseman, has asked for his release!

That the Francis brothers may be three of Tustin's five basketball regulars next year!

That Jim Musick quit U. S. C. during his freshman term because his fraternity brothers insisted he wear a dress suit, and special dispensation had to be made before he would return to college!

That "Benny" Wilk resigned as manager of the Stars because he didn't want to "bear down" on some of his erring pals who have been known to violate training rules during ball season!

BLAENDER OF BROWNS HEADS FOR FLORIDA

Accompanied by his wife, George Blaender of the St. Louis Browns left his home at Garden Grove today for the south, where the pitcher will report for spring training early next month. They are traveling by automobile.

Mrs. Blaender will stop off at Tulsa, Okla., to visit her parents, her husband continuing on to West Palm Beach, Fla., where his club will condition for the coming American league season.

Blaender already has mailed to headquarters his signed contract. It is understood he received not only a slight salary increase but also a "sliding contract" which will net him more according to the number of games he wins. Blaender expressed himself as highly pleased with the arrangement.

HAMAS MAY ACCEPT CHAMPIONSHIP BOUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Unless a Steve Hamas-Maxie Barr match is made within the next 10 days, Hamas probably will be matched with the winner of the Feb. 25 title bout between Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran at Miami, Charles Harvey, manager of Hamas, announced today.

"Col. John Reed Kilpatrick of Madison Square Garden offered us the title shot outright last night," Harvey said. "Kilpatrick said there would be no necessity of Hamas meeting any other contender before the title match."

When Maxie Rosenbloom, clowning king of the light heavies, does his dancing, sometimes he can pay the fiddler, but often he can't reimburse his entourage. And thereby hangs a tale.

The bold-front Maxie, who is often empty of pocket, was riding in his luxurious motor, piloted by a patient chauffeur. One day, however, the driver lost his patience, and peevish at having received nothing in his envelope for several paydays, had the effrontery to squawk to his boss.

"So you're squawking, eh?" sneered Max. "Well, give me that cap, get back here, and I'll drive you."

Layton, Bozeman Tied For Lead In Billiard Tourney

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Johnny Layton, who revolutionized billiards back in 1910 with his discovery of the "diamond" system, today was up in a tie again with Jay Bozeman for first place in the world three-cushion billiard championship.

The red-headed Missourian advanced to a tie last night by beating Willie Hoppe, New York veteran, 50 to 46 in 55 innings. It was his seventh win in eight starts.

Layton and Bozeman will try to take sole command of the lead in today's matches. Layton is paired against Allen Hall and Bozeman meets Welker Cochran, defending champion.

M'GRAW CONDITION SLIGHTLY IMPROVED

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Feb. 20.—(UP)—The condition of John J. McGraw, former manager of the New York Giants, "seems somewhat improved" today, according to a bulletin issued at New Rochelle hospital, where McGraw has been confined since Friday with uremia.

The bulletin said:

"Patient passed comfortable night. Slept well, with occasional restless periods and is less stuporous. Signs of uremia less marked. General condition seems somewhat improved. Temperature 103, pulse 90, respiration 30."

GARDEN TO PROMOTE TITLE TOURNAMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Madison Square Garden plans to promote an international elimination to determine a successor to Kid Chocolate's world featherweight crown, vacated yesterday by the New York boxing commission because it was not defended.

Mike Bellrose, New York featherweight, would be paired with Vittorio Ammansini, Italian champion, who recently arrived. Winner of this match would meet Freddie Miller of Cincinnati.

DOOR FROSH LEAD CLASS MEET

PREP OUTLETS GET READY FOR PLAYOFF GAMES

Santa Ana's Saints, playing through one of their longest basketball seasons, and all other Orange league prep teams are ready for the first round of the C. I. F. championship tournament.

In sectional preliminaries at Tustin Friday, Reese Greene's revamped Santa Ana five clashed with Bill Cole's Tustin Titans, at 4 p. m., immediately after Garden Grove opposes Orange. The winners clash in the Tustin gym Friday night to determine which school will represent this district in the semi-finals the following week. This contest will be preceded by a game between the afternoon losers.

San Juan Capistrano, county champion, meets Citrus Friday afternoon at Fullerton. Compton plays San Bernardino in another contest. The two winners colliding that night.

The same system will be followed at Whittier college when Anaheim tackles Fullerton, and Brea-Olinda battles Whittier.

Huntington Beach, which is to have taken on Inglewood in Los Angeles, has withdrawn from the tournament. The Oilers' place has been filled by Downey.

Rebuilding his team after losing three regulars through mid-term graduation, Coach Greene was surprised at Santa Ana's showing against Fullerton's powerful Indians, who barely defeated the Saints 19-16 here Friday. Greene believed his new lineup of Erwin Youel and Roger McCune, forwards; Fred Southworth, center; Leonard Lookhart and Tom Lacy, guards, will just about hold its own against Tustin.

TROJAN ALUMNI TO HEAR BARRY AND CROMWELL

Track and basketball activities on the Pacific Coast will claim the spotlight at the February meeting of the Orange County Men's Trojan club tonight at 8:30 in the Green Cat cafe, with Coach Sam Berry and Dean Cromwell from the University of Southern California billed as speakers.

Cromwell has promised to outline plans for the National collegiate track meet to be held in Los Angeles this summer under the sponsorship of the Trojans.

The annual classic is one of the representative meets of the year and will be held on the Pacific Coast for the first time.

Barry, who tutors the strong Trojan basketball team which is tied with California for the Southern division title, has attained great success since coming to S. C.

Cromwell has handled a number of Orange county athletes during his coaching career of more than a score of years at U. S. C. Some of his prominent pupils were Fred Kelly, Olympic champion hurdler; Bill Cook, Neal Raney, Charles Wehner, Howard and Norman Paul, Blanchard Beatty and Doyle Gilbert.

A few Trojan athletes will accompany the coaches, including Curtis Youel of Santa Ana, varsity center for three years; "Cotton" Warbuton, All-American quarterback, and Al Tieburg, freshman tackle, who will offer vocal numbers. Ralph Wilcox, former grid star and now alumni field secretary, and Lewis Gough, alumni executive secretary, will speak briefly.

Since the meeting has been designated as "high school night," many of the members will bring students of county schools as guests. Dr. H. A. Johnston of Anaheim will be toastmaster.

Wayne Harrison, club president, will announce the nominating committee to select new officers, which will be elected at the last meeting of the year.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—(UP)—U. C. L. A. scored a dual triumph on the ice of the Winter Garden here last night by winning a hockey game from the University of Southern California and then capturing the pentathlon of the annual Big Pines winter carnival. The latter event was postponed several weeks ago during the carnival because of lack of ice.

The Bruins scored 12,502 points to win the pentathlon. Whittier college finished second with 11,456 and Southern California came in third with 10,489. Helmar Olsen of U. S. C. was the individual champion.

TENNIS SIREN ONCE "RUBBER" NOW HE ANNOYS SMUG NETMEN

Opportunity Rings Doorbell of Lowly Bill O'Brien

BY HENRY M'LEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(UP)—Many a cow has been milked since I went to school and read in my red reader that this was the land of opportunity and look what Lincoln did.

But somehow this fact didn't impress me then. Perhaps I was too busy making spitballs or dipping Lily Smith's pigtail in the inkwell. Anyway, it wasn't until today, when I fell to thinking about one Bill O'Brien, that I realized that in this country of ours opportunity doesn't content itself with sitting on its haunches just around the corner, but comes galloping up to knock on the front door, back door, and windowpane.

Not so long ago Bill O'Brien, if his biographers are not up to some knavery, was a rubber. A rubber is a gentleman with a rap on who takes an athlete's tired body, flops it on a table, and beats out of it the commodity sometimes referred to as hell. Because of some strange psychological power in the rubber, the athlete, worse off than before, gets up thinking he feels swell.

Or perhaps it isn't a strange psychological power at all, but the fact that the horse liniment, snake oil, bear grease and herbs that the rubber uses to rub with, leaves the athlete smelling so strongly he runs faster simply to get away from himself.

Anyway, Mr. O'Brien was a rubber. Today he knows his muffer in the best Mayfair manner and calls his overcoat a "greatcoat." Furthermore, he's the man behind Tilden Tennis Tours, inc., which makes him the czar of professional tennis. It's Rubber O'Brien that you see in the sports headlines these days with offers to Helen Wills Moody, Fred Perry, Jack Crawford and other tennis titans, to turn professional. It's Rubber O'Brien, whose handicap still retains the pressure he used to exert in keeping C. C. Pyle's athletes glowing with the pink that is health, who is keeping the United States Lawn Tennis association awake these nights.

Rubber O'Brien has offered contracts to all of tennis' big box office names. He insists most of them soon will be under his banners

TREE PLANTING PROJECT IS CONSIDERED BY CITY COUNCIL

PLACENTIA, Feb. 20.—A general tree planting program for parkways is to be inaugurated in Placentia if plans of city councilmen, made at a regular meeting last night, carry. The program was launched as a federal project if approval is gained.

Mrs. Nellie Cline, city clerk, presented an anti-picketing ordinance, which was tabled by the councilmen until further knowledge of the situation can be gleaned.

The ordinance was a request of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, urged three weeks ago at a meeting by Harry O. Easton, manager of the Placentia Mutual Orange association, when he said he anticipated labor trouble this spring at the opening of the Valencia orange season.

Suggestions were made that all three incumbent trustees whose terms expire file papers asking for re-election. Those terms expiring are Howard Jerome, E. M. Everett and C. R. Young. Other members of the board are Clarence Halber, mayor, and A. C. Schalles.

Two years ago the council adopted an ordinance which carries similar provisions but it was stipulated that no bond is required if the applicant for the license can show a year's lease for the premises where the business is to be located and a receipt showing that the first and last months' rents have been paid.

This law failed to have any teeth in it, according to complaints made by merchants to Capt. George A. Portus, executive secretary of the chamber of commerce. Owners of vacant property, particularly along the board walk and within a short distance of the ocean front, are asserted to have given the "rentless" merchants and to have made no effort to enforce the provisions of the lease when the summer rush of business was over.

The tentative ordinance provides that anyone applying for a license to establish a business in this city must agree to remain in business for six months if issued a permit at the basic rate of $15 per year. Otherwise, he will be required to pay a tax by the day, the suggested fee being five dollars. The proposed law would require that a bond of $1000 be posted as a guarantee of good faith to be forfeited if the ordinance is violated.

ORDINANCE TO BE PRESENTED ON WEDNESDAY

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 20.—Protection of the merchants of Laguna Beach against the so-called "fly-by-night" who come to this beach resort for two or three months during the summer season and take away "the cream of the business," is the object of an ordinance which the city council will be asked to consider at its meeting Wednesday night at the request of the chamber of commerce.

Otherwise, he will be required to pay a tax by the day, the suggested fee being five dollars. IN CRIME TALK BEFORE PUPILS

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 20.—"Don't take up detective work. It keeps one aware of the most sordid side of life."

That was the advice given Monday by Capt. Don Wilkie to the boys and girls of La Escuela del Mar before he left for Los Angeles to organize an intelligence unit for Major Donald Connolly, administrator for the CWA in Los Angeles county and which aims to ferret out the injustices and irregularities of the relief organization which the army man has just taken over.

Captain Wilkie had been invited by Miss Elise Johnson, head of the school, to address the students on the topic, "Crime as a Social Problem." Miss Johnson, in connection with Mrs. Golden Weston head of adult education work in the Santa Ana schools, had spent the best part of a year in rehabilitation work at the county jail.

Miss Johnson, in her school work, is opposed to corporal punishment for children and the students of the high school classes "got a big kick" out of Captain Wilkie's advocacy of the whipping post for second offenders.

"Whipping seems to bring about a psychological change in a man and ride him of the feeling of power he has over victims," declared the speaker.

Captain Wilkie also advocated capital punishment for murder and urged a movement for a code of laws that would be applicable to all states.

The gangs are not controlled by gangsters who do the actual work but by the "finger man," who usually is very wealthy and respected by his fellow citizens. Therefore he is difficult to reach, Captain Wilkie said.

1000 Present As All Stars Defeat La Habra, 12 to 5

CYPRESS, Feb. 20.—Over 1000 baseball fans attended the Cypress All Stars and the La Habra nine, with the All Stars winning 12 to 5. The Cypress aggregation was made up of professional players. A greased pig contest was staged after the game.

The players' donated their services. The game was arranged by Vernon Snell, president of the Unemployed association, and G. C. Fridley.

The players on the Cypress team included Willard Hershberger, Hollywood; Floyd "Arkie" Vaughn; Pittsburgh Pirates; Len Storti, St. Louis Browns; W. L. Carson, Detroit Tigers; Leo Stine, Chicago White Sox; Earl Stoner, San Francisco; Ray Edwards, Idaho league.

The summer night was deadly still. Heat lightning flashed somewhere, far off to the north, and indoors the clink of crystal could be faintly heard, mingled with the sound of light, careless voices. Gypsy stood alone on the parapet, her apricot gown floating around her, her face ashen in the dimness.

"Derek," she whispered faintly, "Derek!" She felt a gnawing nausea at the pit of her stomach. She was desperately afraid she was going to faint. And she continued to stand, as if rooted to the spot, frozen into a dreadful immobility.

Perhaps not 30 seconds had passed, although to her those seconds ticked past like hours, before Hunt's tall form was silhouetted against the light and Hunt's agreeable voice said carelessly, "How're tricks, you two?"

"You two!" With the words Gypsy's immobility cracked and she rushed toward him as to a savior, hysteria in her voice.

$10,000 SCHOOL BOND PROJECT GETS APPROVAL OF FARM CENTER

YORBA LINDA, Feb. 20.—The 70 members of the farm center approved the calling of an election on $10,000 bonds, to run 17 years, for the building of a new auditorium for the grammar school at the meeting Monday night.

A. J. Olson, of the board of directors of the school, presented the new auditorium plan. Olson said $4000 can be had under the PWA program and with voting $10,000 in bonds, and the money used at more than $15,000 that will seat about 450 persons can be erected. The bonded indebtedness of the school district is about $32,000 and $15,000 may be borrowed on the district, he said.

Orange county tax rate will be reduced 10 per cent this year, when the county assessor's office makes another 10 per cent reduction in assessed valuation, according to James Sleeper, Orange county assessor, who talked at the center meeting.

Before the opening of the program, the Yorba Linda trio, Mrs. H. Anderson, violinist, Mrs. S. M. Selover, pianist, and Carolyn Pickering, cellist, played a group of numbers.

The hospital has been closed for a year. The last lease was Dr. Wagner, of Pasadena, who operated under a lease from the Ole Hanson Building company.

Davis stated that the bank was acting as agent for an estate in acquiring the property.

CARL H. HANKEY CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL BOARD

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 20.—Carl H. Hankey has announced his intention of being a candidate for election on the high school board of trustees of the San Juan Capistrano Union High School district at the March election. Two members for the board will be elected to fill the expired terms of Mrs. H. S. Barnes and Dr. J. B. Lape. Mrs. Barnes recently resigned from the board and Dr. Lape is not a candidate for re-election because he is moving from this district.

Thus far Hankey is the only person from San Juan Capistrano who has publicly announced his intention of being a candidate in the election. Hankey is prominent in community and county affairs. He has been a resident of the district for the past 13 years and has been a member of the grammar school board of trustees for the San Juan Capistrano district for the past six years. He is also a candidate for re-election on that board. During the last session of the county grand jury Hankey was chairman of the committee for the investigation of schools in Orange county, and with his committee visited 106 schools, the total number of county educational institutions.

Consider Offers For Hospital In Spanish Village

SAN CLEMENTE, Feb. 20.—Possibility that the San Clemente hospital may be reopened some time in the near future was seen in the statement today by George E. Davis, vice president of the Beverly Hills National Bank and Trust company, that his institution was considering several offers for the property, which was acquired at a foreclosure sale Saturday.

The hospital has been closed for a year. The last lease was Dr. Wagner, of Pasadena, who operated under a lease from the Ole Hanson Building company.

Miss Maydelle Allen, League fourth vice president, was in charge of arrangements. Jack Wilson is president.

Is This Too Good For Your Cough?

Creomulsion may be a better help than you need. It combines seven major helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is made for quick relief, for safety. Mild coughs often yield to lesser helps. No one can tell. No one knows which factor will do most for any certain cough. So, careful people, more and more, are using Creomulsion for any cough that starts.

The cost is a little more than a single help. But your druggist guarantees it, so it costs nothing if it fails to bring you quick relief. Coughs are danger signals. For safety's sake, deal with them in the best way known—Adv.

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Gypsy Morell and Tom Weaver are married on the same day as Lila and Derek. Gypsy simply could not let herself believe that had happened to Derek, with his strong, supple body and his crooked, faun-like smile. Why, less than two years ago he and Lila had made all sorts of preposterous vows to each other: to love, to cherish, to honor. What did it all mean? Was fidelity, after all, such an unimportant thing as people seemed to think nowadays? And had Derek perished because he had believed in it?

Every time the elevator door banged they all turned their eyes fearfully in its direction. The sultry tension grew and deepened. "In a flash I'm going to scream," the girl in the ice-blue confided to Gypsy. "Somebody give me a cigarette, for heaven's sake."

"Ghastly affair, simply ghastly," whispered another. She looked absolutely shattered, but she kept renewing her complexion with fingers that shook a little.

"Why doesn't somebody do something?" Lila interrupted fretfully. "Where's Marko? Why did Marko have to run off and leave like that? Where is everybody?"

At length there were steps in the hall and the women looked gratefully, hopefully at Hunt as he came in. Gypsy felt she had never liked him better than she did that moment. He seemed a very tower of strength.

He came toward them swiftly and said something in a low tone to Lila. She uttered one faint shriek and buried her face in her wadded handkerchief. Davies led her from the room.

Hunt faced the others. "He hit the parapet three stories below," he told them gravely. "He's alive—but they think his back is broken."

If there is anything more irritating than a man's discovery, on avoiding the very jaws of temptation and rushing home to his wife, that the latter is nowhere to be found, I cannot think of it at the moment. Tom Weaver felt decidedly silly, distinctly priggish and finally, bitterly angry. Gypsy had said she would be home early; she had seemed genuinely to mean it. Here it was past midnight and she had not appeared.

Tom didn't like it. He prided himself on his modern attitude, especially toward his wife. She was a free agent, wasn't she? The days of the possessive husband were gone forever—and yet—and yet—the women were left alone. It was horrible. No one knew what to say or to do. But the utter dependence and abandonment of the curled small figure did not serve to dispel his gloomy temper. Although he knew it was not true, he told himself that Gypsy was neglecting the boy. She had no business rushing around as she did these days.

Presently he heard her key but he did not move. He continued to stand there, in the half light, sulking. But his ears were alert. He heard the swish of her draperies, the click of another lamp and Gypsy's half hysterical laugh which ended in a sob. She said something unintelligible to her escort.

"Lord, you'd think the fool would have sense enough to go home now," Tom thought grimly. He went out into the hall, caught at a disadvantage after his sojourn in the dark. Blinking like an owl, he saw the swish of her draperies, the click of another lamp and Gypsy's half hysterical laugh which ended in a sob. She said something unintelligible to her escort.

reluctantly, glanced at Tom with irony. "Sorry, old man."

Tom barely nodded. His attitude was that of a host unable to wait until the unwelcome guest has bowed himself out. When the door had closed after him Gypsy said, very low, "Oh, why did you behave like that? So unnecessary...."

ORANGE, Feb. 20.—While presentation of "The Mikado" by members of the Orange Woman's club was pleasantly anticipated by club members and the actual performance, the residents of the community, 15 members of the chorus yesterday afternoon and evening, far exceeded any previous conception of what the event would be. A beautifully lighted stage, costumes which were both colorful and gorgeous combined with the skillfully directed production produced the contribution of the chorus to the year's program one of the most outstanding and elaborate of the season.

The stage was hung with rare tapestries, while peach blooms and masses of acacia imparted an effective and typically Japanese atmosphere. A row of Japanese lanterns glowed along the footlights. Mrs. Benjamin J. Brubaker, assisted by Mrs. Donald Smiley, was director.

Of Nanki-Poo, son of the emperor, her lovely love, giving an especially charming performance, was sung to the musical selection she sang.

Parts of the three little maidens from school, "Yum-Yum," "Peep-Bo" and "Peep-Bo" were taken by Ella Lenore Kogter, Vida M. Collins and Christine Lambert. They were very loved by the Japanese audience and to Mr. Kogter's beauty and talent goes the credit of the honor for the success of the opera. Sue L. Scarratt, president of the section, played the exacting role of "Katisha," and the part of "Pish-Tush," a suave and noble lord, was in the capable hands of Mae A. Burkett. The role of "The Mikado" was played by Claude Hart, whose first stage appearance was marked by poise and charm. Miss Ruth Campbell was standard bearer to the Mikado Solos by Mrs. Collins in her role of "Pitti Sing" were especially enjoyable.

The work of Mildred M. Newman as "Ko-Ko", the chief executioner, was given a profound finish which was heartily applauded. The cast and the chorus of clubwomen of the county in the afternoon and an equally large audience at the evening performance. The dignified county federation president, Mrs. C. C. Bonbrake, laid aside all other duties and entered the hospital in a delightful allusion of "Pooh-Bah." Jean Allan Des Larzes played the role of "Ko-Ko".

Members of the chorus were Ida M. Stearns, Minnie Hitt, Ida Mae Palmer, Margaret M. Ockles, and Dorothy Coe. Members of the chorus, playing the parts of men, included V. Richards, Lillian Edwards, Grace Knolia, Ellen Caldwell, Geraldine B. Evans and Ethel Clark.

Mrs. Bess Coe was the accompanist, playing a large part in the successful presentation of the opera.

material than is contained in the biggest pyramid in Egypt, the Boulder dam will be completed 18 months ahead of schedule, on January 1, 1937, stated W. R. Nelson, associate engineer of the project, in an address to the Orange Growers' association last night.

Nelson spoke in the place of Walker Young, chief engineer of the Boulder dam, who was unable to be present. Young sent 85 slides and four reels of motion pictures illustrating various phases of the dam construction, to be shown at the meeting.

Preliminary work on the dam, which is officially named Boulder dam, was begun in 1920, Nelson stated. The main purposes of it, he said, are to conserve the water from the Colorado river, to produce electrical power and to prevent the depositing of silt and consequently flooding of the Imperial valley. He went on to state that 300 tons of silt are carried down stream every minute, and that silt has to be removed from the river.

Forty billion kilowatt hours of electricity will be produced each year, from 17 turbines, continues Nelson. The electricity, he said, allowing for losses in lines, power plant, and for cost, could be brought to this community for one cent per kilowatt hour, about five cents lower than is now paid, to build, will remain as permanent headquarters for the men who are to operate the dam, said Nelson. The engineer said that it would take from about 100 to 150 men on the job constantly to Nelson said that when digging for the rock bottom of the river a gorge 85 feet deep and 80 feet wide was found which was believed to have been in existence for at least 25,000 years.

The concrete in the dam is cooled by water running through pipes in the columns and the spaces caused by contraction filled with cement, he said. The concrete is then allowed to regain its original temperature, and the expansion compresses the structure to prevent cracking. The cooling would take 150 years, he said, but would be a natural means. He

County Youth Group To Meet Here Thursday Night

PROGRAM FOR PEACE TO BE FORUM TOPIC

CITY AFFAIRS TO BE TAKEN OVER BY BOYS

"The Peril of War and a Program for Peace" which is to be the subject of an address by the Rev. Russell Stroup, pastor of the Christ Church by the Sea in Newport Beach, and "The Unknown Soldier Speaks," dramatization of an address by John Haynes Holmes, are to be the features of a county forum held by the youth of Orange county at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, February 22, in the Temple theater, Third and Bush streets, Santa Ana.

Plans for the meeting were completed at a business meeting held Sunday afternoon in Santa Ana by the Orange County American Youth Council. Although primarily a meeting of youth, everyone is invited to attend the session at which no admission fee is to be charged.

The address of the evening will stress the imminent danger of war in the world and how residents of America can insure the nation against participating in such war if it comes.

Charles Warner, Santa Ana, president of the group, is to be the presiding officer, and Carl Yost, Brea, vice president, is to present the pledges of the group which give the purpose of the organization as to make a definite stand for peace and for the equality of all races. The Rev. Donald Gaylord, Brea, is advisor of the organization.

Peter and Andrew Skipper from Newport Beach are to present the play.

Birthday Dinner Is Held In Brea

BREA, Feb. 20.—Honoring her husband on the occasion of his birthday anniversary, Mrs. W. D. Shaffer invited members of the family and a few close friends in for a 6 o'clock dinner at the Shaffer home on West Imperial highway recently. It was also the birthday anniversary of Mrs. J. H. Greist, a family friend, and the affair proved a surprise to both honorees.

A link and white birthday cake and white tapers decorated the long table where places were laid for Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Greist, Mr. and Mrs. Don Shaffer and son, Charles, of Montebello; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Sandman and daughter, Marjorie; and Dorothy; Miss Betty Shaffer and Elvin Wilson, both of Pomona college.

Here is his enthusiastic letter:

"Am 70 years of age, and for 40 of these years there never was a week but what I had to take a pill or some kind of cathartic."

"I took everything, but gained only temporary relief. Until last spring my daughter, who is a nurse at a hospital, brought me some Kellogg's ALL-BRAN."

"At the end of the week, I knew I had something that was it, and I kept on taking it. I haven't taken a cathartic since. I can eat meat any time, as often as I like, or any other kind of food, and no constipation." Mr. L. M. Durigan, 6811 Buffalo Ave., Jacksonville, Florida.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help muscle tone. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much safer than patent medicines. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in serious cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

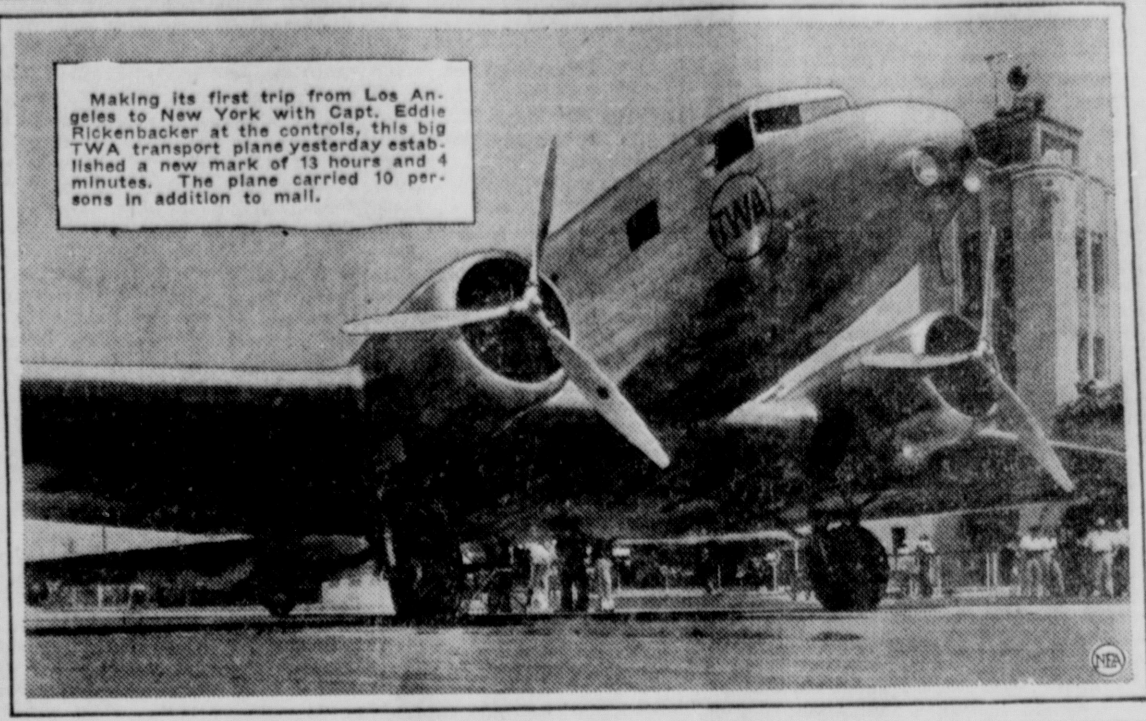

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SCHOOL PLANS DISCUSSED AT MESA MEETING

COSTA MESA, Feb. 20.—School board members, high school and grammar school teachers and others, representing Costa Mesa, Newport Beach, the Newport Harbor Union High school and the Pualino school districts, were in attendance at a mass meeting which was called by the local school board last night for a round table discussion on present school building problems. The chief problem before the meeting was whether the district should go ahead with monies received as a loan from the state, or stand by for a time in the hope of getting a federal grant.

John L. Webster, clerk of the local board, opened the discussion by recommending that time be taken to try and get a federal grant, pointing out that the district would be justified in making arrangements to carry on the present teaching program for a longer time yet, as the federal grant would amount to approximately $17,500 and would more than offset any loss that would be sustained in waiting.

George Waterman, local rancher and president of the Costa Mesa Taxpayers' league, corroborated Webster's statement, declaring that anything that can be done to keep down school taxes would be a move in the right direction.

Following a short talk by D. J. Dodge, president of the high school board, in which he stressed the point that children should be considered before taxes, Waterman made a motion, which was seconded, that the community give the grammar school trustees board a vote of commendation for the work that they are and have been doing, and encourage them to proceed along like lines until the program is consummated.

George Healey, member of the board, and chairman of the building committee, stated that the board is proceeding as rapidly as possible under the new school building laws. Architects, hired by the board, have drawn plans for a building formulated on a $70,000 basis. The plans have been approved by the state school board, it was stated.

Prentice Thompson, chairman of the Costa Mesa board presided.

Maydelle Allan plays the part of the sweet Irish lassie Bedella O'Rafferty, in love with Dennis Mulcahey, Irish miner, portrayed by Cloy Francis. John Henderson is Jib Gordon, Chip's "pappy," and a typical old miner.

Other members of the cast are Eugeneus Jack, bartender; Joe Wilson as Judge Thompson, Red Dog postmaster; Mildred Carment, stage driver, and Rutherford Williams, negro mascot of Judge Thompson.

A matinee will be given Thursday afternoon exclusively for children. No one besides school teachers will be allowed at this performance except children in the ninth grade or below.

"I feel that I have had a fine group of people with which to work," states Miss Martin, "and we are going to try to put on this performance with all the fervor and pathos of a genuine old-fashioned melodrama. The play is not written about the nineties."

Bridge Enjoyed In Hankey Home

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 20.—Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Hankey were hosts at a dinner party given recently in their home. Many baskets of beautiful flowers from the Hankey gardens added charm to the setting.

Guests at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mize and children, Bob and Marjorie of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. William Speer of San Juan Capistrano, and Mr. and Mrs. Den Acres of San Clemente.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. John S. Malcom and Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Guilbert joined the group to make three tables of bridge. A prize of an attractive deck of cards went to Mr. and Mrs. Guilbert as holders of high score when scores were added at the close of play.

Dainty refreshments were served at a late hour by the hostess, Mrs. Hankey.

JAMBOREE DATE FOR BOY SCOUTS SET MARCH 17

Hundreds of Boy Scouts in Orange county today began active preparations for participating in the eighth annual Scout Jamboree following an announcement by Harrison E. White, Orange county Boy Scout executive, that the Jamboree will be held this year in the Santa Ana Bowl, Sixth and Olive streets, March 17 at 1 p. m.

Troops all over the county are making definite plans to participate in the annual event, the highest Scouting event of the year. Awards will be made in the form of "sculps."

Events scheduled for the Jamboree include a grand parade and opening ceremony and contests on first aid, signaling, dressing race, fire by friction, knot tying, "skin the snake," pyramid building, con- tined rope race, string-burning contest and flapjack flipping contest.

Scout Executive White also is planning a series of major events for the coming year, including a Patrol Leaders' conference on March 2, 3 and 4, a bicycle hike to San Diego on March 25, a big Sea Scout regatta on March 29, a county-wide camp on April 20 and 21 and opening of camp around June 20.

A court of honor for Scouts in the northern part of the county will be held in the Washington school, La Habra, February 27, at 7:30 p. m. Troop 96, of La Habra, will hold a Parents' Night dinner prior to the court, and then will act as host to the 200 boys who will get awards and advancements. Joe Stevens is scoutmaster, and will be assisted by Mr. Seaman, commissioner, and L. H. Brower, district chairman. Costa Mesa troop will hold a court of honor the same night.

PLANS BREA MEETING

BREA, Feb. 20.—Mrs. R. W. Spensley, president of the Missionary society of the Congregational church, calls attention to the change in days of meeting for that group, from Wednesday to Tuesday in the fourth week of each month.

The next meeting of the society will be held Tuesday, February 27, at which time Mrs. E. C. Beale and Miss Laura Proctor, representing the Los Angeles Association of Congregational women, will be speakers.

Court Notes

Charlie Watson, Santa Ana, pleaded guilty in justice court yesterday on a charge of failing to make an arm signal in traffic and was given a five day suspended jail sentence by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

Fred Harmore paid a $10 speeding fine in justice court yesterday.

Gas Tax Cut For City To Be $35,000

Money from the state gasoline tax funds will be received soon in Santa Ana, following receipt of a letter by the city council from Corleyou in Los Angeles, stating that Santa Ana's apportionment would approximate $1.24 per capita.

Corleyou enclosed a resolution with his letter, which when filled out and returned, will bring a check for the two year allocation to Santa Ana. Although exact figures are not available at this time, it is believed that Santa Ana will receive about $35,000 under the system which gives cities one-fourth cent for each gallon of gasoline sold in the city.

A vigorous campaign has been waged for some time to have this allocation for cities raised to one cent, with the county and state receiving the other two cents of the three cent tax.

Most of the money sent here will be used to widen South Main street into an 80-foot highway. The work will begin on the west side and the paving of an additional six foot strip from Fairview street to the southern city limits.

MAKE PLANS FOR BIG FLOWER SHOW

PASADENA, Feb. 20.—In a proud pageant of beauty, tens of thousands of California's most appealing spring flowers will be marshalled from field and hillside, garden and greenhouse at the annual Southern California Spring Flower Show. The fifty-seventh semi-annual Pasadena event will be staged in the Civic Auditorium on April 12, 13 and 14.

The Pasadena Horticultural Association, sponsors of the elaborate Spring exhibition, has chosen for the theme of this year's show "A California Spring Garden." Plans are now being drawn for the exhibit scheme, which is expected to result in the most attractive revelation of the floral wealth of the state ever given. For over twenty-five years the Pasadena Show has been recognized by experts as the leading exhibit of flowers and rare plants in this part of the United States.

SEEK CWA AID FOR REPAIRS ON OUTFALL SEWER

Immediate action on the project of repairing the joint outfall sewer line below the screening plant was started this morning when the plan was presented to CWA officials for approval after being authorized by the city council in session yesterday.

O. E. Steward, outfall sewer engineer, appeared before the board and said that a section of the cement pipe line, more than a mile in length, should be repaired at once while CWA funds are available. He said that the government officials had expressed willingness to assist the eight cities in the district to complete the work and would urge speedy action on the project.

Since Santa Ana controls 45 per cent of the sewer district, the council was approached first to authorize the CWA application. Under estimates presented by Steward, the total cost of the work will be $52,849, including $38,630 for labor, $6969 for materials and $7250 for rental of tools, trucks and other equipment.

A gunite machine will be purchased so that a two-inch layer of concrete can be applied to the upper half of the broken pipe line which was damaged in the earthquake last year. When the work is completed, the machine will be sold if possible.

Santa Ana's share of the cost will be about $750, it is believed. Other cities and district participating in the joint outfall sewer are Fullerton, Anaheim, Orange and the sanitation districts of La Habra, Placentia, Garden Grove and Buena Park.

THE TINYMITES

The two squirrels shortly grew tired and friendly Scouty said, "No doubt you'd like to have us help you. We will store nuts for a while."

"If someone else will toss them high I'll climb into the tree and try to store them where you want them," "Course this made the two squirrels smile.

"My goodness, but you're kind," said one. "It really will be lots of fun to sit right down and watch you do the work we ought to do."

"Just pack the nuts in good and tight, and everything will be all right. We'll crack a great big nut for you to eat, when you are done."

So, all the Tines worked away until one of them cried, "Hurray! We've finished. Now I'd like to have that nut we're going to eat."

"Okay," replied the fluffy squirrel. "At cracking it I'll have a whirl. 'Twill take me 'bout a minute, so you Tines have a seat."

The whole bunch squatted on the ground, and soon the nut was passed around. "Oh, gee, how good," said Goldy, as she nibbled on her share.

One of the squirrels then said, "We are going to nap up in the tree. You Tines do what'er you wish around here. We don't care."

Soon they all heard a cheerful noise. Of Nick said, "Listen, girls and boys. That's my friend, Robin Redbreast, working now, with all his might."

"WITCHCRAFT" TO BE PLAYED OVER KREG HERE

A true story of the days of "witchcraft" will be enacted by a cast of stellar players tonight at 8:45 on KREG under the title of "Witches of Salem." It was announced by program officials.

This will be the first of a series of intensely interesting and dramatic plays called "Makers of History," to be broadcast each Tuesday and Thursday from the local station under the sponsorship of George C. Johnson, Studebaker dealer in Santa Ana.

Program officials stated that these plays are authentic in every way and are taken from real happenings in history. "Witches of Salem" will portray the thrilling story of Faith Randolph, a beautiful and charming girl, who was accused of "witchcraft" by a woman whose own characteristics were decidedly those of a "witch." Faith is condemned to die at the stake but a most surprising and almost unbelievable climax to the drama saves her from the terrible death by fire.

DR. WORKMAN TO BE ON KREG TONIGHT

"Gall Stones" is the title of the lecture to be delivered by Dr. James Workman, one of Orange county's leading chiropractors, during the "Keep Smiling" program tonight, starting at 6 o'clock on KREG.

Dr. Workman will explain during his lecture how Chiropractic has effected cures in many difficult cases. It was stated.

The musical portion of tonight's program will present songs as sung by Richard Tauber. The program will include "Could You But You," "The Merry Widow," "Lehar: Tosti's 'Serenade' and 'Tales from the Vienna Woods' Strauss.

RUTH BARTLETT AND LIP READERS

Miss Ruth Bartlett, instructor of lip reading in the Adult Education Department, Santa Ana City Schools, will speak on "Getting Along in High School with Failing Eyes" at 8:30 on KREG.

"This subject has become vitally important to me," she said, "since I have discovered a child who had every intention of never going to high school because she is hard of hearing. There may be other children in Orange county and within the radius of KREG who think they cannot get along in high school because they cannot hear. I hope this broadcast will reach them."

KREG NOTES

A "best bet" tonight: Alma Whitaker speaking on "Mothers-in-Law," 7 o'clock, KREG.

Donald McDonald, favorite tenor, will sing "Two Souls," Bowles-Ressler; "Mother O'Mine," Kipling; "Inter Nos," Fadden, and "Invictus," Huber, tonight, starting at 7:30 on KREG.

"What is Advertising?" is the title of the first 5-minute talk of a series to be broadcast from KREG. Tonight's talk will be scheduled at 8:45 and will explain the fundamental purposes and uses of legitimate advertising. Subsequent talks, to be broadcast under the auspices of the Advertising Federation of America, will be "The Philosophy of Advertising," "Making Money Move," and "The Essence of Recovery."

RADIO FEATURES

Another group of "deep South" numbers will be presented by Linda Lee, KJH torch singer and her Louisianaans, over KJH from 5:30 to 5:45 this afternoon.

"Sarka," one of a group of symphonic poems by Smetana, written under the general title, "My Country," will be played by the Philadelphia Studio orchestra in the concert to be heard over the Columbia network including KJH at 6 o'clock.

Mysteries of the sea, some of which have never been told before, will be revealed in the program which Phillips H. Lord will present from the after cabin of his four-masted schooner, the Seth Parker, over a coast-to-coast NBC network including KJH at 7 o'clock.

The oldest continuous radio program in the world, the Caswell Concert will be presented again over an NBC network including KJH at 7:45 tonight, and will feature Emil J. Polak's orchestra and a mixed vocal quartet.

"Concert Supreme" is the title selected by Frederick Stark for the Ingleswood Park concert to be broadcast over KJH from 8 to 8:30 tonight. Two guest artists, Sirocco Maugurian, dramatic mezzo soprano, and Albert Hay Mello, composer, will appear with the orchestra in a particularly fine selection of musical numbers.

"The Song of Araby," describing a distinct departure from the usual radio presentation, will make its debut over an NBC network including KJH between 9:30 and 10 o'clock.

WEDNESDAY

The story of "Siegfried," hero of Teutonic and Scandinavian legends, will be enacted for intermediate grade students of the American School of the Air in the literature class to be broadcast over the Columbia network including KJH at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday.

Dr. Howard W. Haggard, associate professor of applied physiology at Yale University, will speak from New York over a nationwide NBC network including KJH and KPSD between 11:45 and 12 noon Wednesday. In his talk, entitled "The Forgotten Woman," he will pay tribute to Dorothea Linde Dix, humanitarian in medical work.

Dr. Samuel W. Fernberger, professor of psychology at the University of Pennsylvania, will be the speaker on the Science Service program to be broadcast over the Columbia network including KJH at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday. Dr. Fernberger will discuss the subject, "How We Remember."

The first broadcast in the new series of programs of original and authentic American folk music at 1:45 p. m. Wednesday over an NBC network including KPO will be distinguished by the playing of two new compositions by John Powell, who will direct the series. Introduction by a short talk by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt from the White House, the initial American folk music program will consist of the works of noted native composers who used folk melodies as thematic material.

BOYS INTO PROFITS

Sir Arthur Balfour, British steel magnate, is now visiting in this country. He by no means agrees with the official British opinion in regard to Hitler, the Nazis and Austria. He wants to see real armament in Germany. He and his close allies are urging the British cabinet to let Hitler have all the war stuff he wants. "Why? you ask. It's good for trade. It is particularly good for Sir Arthur's trade, for he is engaged in the steel and war materials industry, and if Germany is permitted to rearm, British ships will be found carrying great quantities of the necessary material from Sir Arthur's plant."

Of course in an approaching war these British guns and British shells might destroy British boys, but then British pounds (dollars) have gone into British pockets, don't you know, making a jolly good profit out of the transaction.

There is a little English village—too small to get on the map. When war broke out in '14 this village had just nineteen boys of military age, and every one of them enlisted. Emotions were deep when the war ended, for every lad had been killed in action. The village was so stirred that it wished a very impressive memorial, and finally accepted a German field piece and placed it on their central green. On one side of the carriage is a tribute inscribed to the gallant nineteen who died. On the other side is engraved the names of the British company who first sold this gun to the Germans with which British youth—like the nineteen of the village—were ruthlessly mown down.

In this country it is the same. The munitions companies and shipbuilding firms have issued the SOS call at Washington to defeat the Nye resolution for an investigation of their contracts and profits. Some startling exposures are fully expected if Senator Nye is permitted to get busy.

It will be found that these companies were selling American munitions to warring Latin-American countries while Secretary of State Stimson was urging them with a mighty appeal to make peace.

It is expected that Senator Nye will be able to show that the War department actually was instrumental in getting representatives of munition companies to endeavor to defeat and kill a resolution, which was requested by the president, to give him the power to put an embargo on arms shipments to warring countries.

It will also bring to light another important truth, that the Senate Naval Affairs subcommittee has never concluded its investigation of the lobbying activities at Geneva, when the big ship-building companies used the notorious Shearer to defeat the Geneva naval conference, all in the interest of making "hoodle" out of blood.

It is very singular indeed that Admiral Joseph M. Reeves has now been appointed commander of the United States fleet, and that he was named as a party to the attempt to defeat the naval conference. Ex-Secretary of Navy Adams, referring to Reeves, who was lobbying for a certain matter, said: "It reflected no credit upon this department."

It is well for the people to put all these things together and read the dispatches from Washington in regard to the agitation for war in the light of the facts.

A TRANSFORMED GERMANY

On January 20th the German Reichstag met for one day and passed unanimously Hitler's Reform bill. It was immediately confirmed by the Reichstrat, the Diet of the Empire, by which that body delivered a death sentence upon itself. The Reichstag is no longer a legislative or representative body. It becomes nothing more than a rubber stamp for the dictator.

The federal government has ceased to exist. The political divisions of the states have been abolished, and with them the abolition of the provincial diets, which correspond to the legislatures of our states. The chancellor appoints all the provincial governors, and they are under the direct control of the minister of the interior. Protestant Prussia, Catholic Bavaria, Saxony, Baden, and all the little principalities are no more. It is as if all our state lines were erased, all our state legislatures ceased to exist, the senate abolished, the house of representatives no longer a free body, and Franklin D. Roosevelt sole dictator of the American realm.

Perhaps it does not sound so bad to the German as it would to us. The German has always had a great respect for government by junkers and princes. He has been permitted to vote, but his representative in the Reichstag, while the monarchy existed, had only the power to approve legislation, not to initiate it. It passed on the budget, but that too was more or less a formal matter. What might seem to affect him most, especially the Prussian and the Bavarian, was that he no longer is permitted to control the laying of a drain or the setting up of a lamp post on his own street.

Hitler is now all. Only a violent revolution can overthrow him. He has even told the Hohenzollerns that they may as well give up hope of ever getting back. "One thing should never be forgotten," he said in a speech before the final meeting of the Reichstag, "whoever personifies Germany's supreme head receives his mandate from the German people, and is solely responsible to the people alone." He should have added, "I, Hitler, am the people." The Kaiser used to say, "I and God." Hitler has no partner.

ON FIXING PRICES

It appears that fixing of prices is not something new after all. A record of the actions of the New Hampshire legislature has just revealed that in 1777 an act was passed fixing the price of wheat at $1.75 a bushel; rye, 67 cents a bushel; corn, 5 to 8 cents; potatoes, 22 to 33 cents a bushel; butter, 14 cents a pound; men's leather boots, $1.33 a pair; New England rum, 64 to 75 cents a gallon. Farm laborers were paid 56 cents a day from "sun to sun."

Even back there there were exploiters and "chislers" who needed to be regulated by law. Human nature does not change much with the years. The social conscience must find expression in the enactments of legislatures. Otherwise, the powerful exploiters without conscience would run all over the weak.

We suspect the same opposition to regulation was stirred up then as now. It has been said that no privileged class has ever surrendered its privileges without a fight, and that the only way in which the public can be assured of good and fair treatment is to carry its complaints and its grievances to the lawmakers. It is too much to hope that the acquisitive and the selfish in human nature will die a natural death. In early days, the only way to right these wrongs was through bloodshed. Wendell Phillips once defined Czaristic Russia as an absolute monarchy, tempered by assassination. We of today have improved upon that method. We can go to the legislature; and while we cannot always get from that body what we want, election day comes around, and we can pick our friends, if there are enough voters who agree with us. These are the blessings of a democracy.

Henry Pu Yi will become emperor of Manchukuo on March 1, and so will be permitted to sign his name to all orders Japan cares to let him give.

LET'S GO

The Dead Sea of the Bible was once believed to be a bad place to live near. It was once said that no bird ever flew over its waters without dropping dead. Its salt water was believed to have been the result of a curse upon the corrupt inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah. From that time on the apples of Sodom were supposed to turn to ashes in the taste, and the grapes of Gomorrah were poisonous. In a land of drought in which fresh water was much desired, the inhabitants naturally looked upon that great expanse of undrinkable water as a mockery of their thirst.

But things have changed for the Dead Sea. The tourist in Palestine is handed an advertisement when he comes to that region which reads like this: "Kallia Seaside and Health Resort, with restaurants, cafes, bathing establishments, and facilities for boating on the lake." The circular states that the barometric pressure over the lake causes a high oxygen content in the air, with a wonderfully invigorating effect on human beings. The pillar of salt into which Lot's wife was transformed, because she looked back yearningly to the city being devoured by the flames of Jehovah's wrath, has been displaced by beach beauties in pajamas. "The Sea of Curses has become a Sea of Excursion."

The Dead Sea has become a summer resort. American jazz, merry-go-rounds, shoot-the-shoots, throwing baseballs at the negro's head, and all the rest may be enjoyed by the Arabs of that region. The world is becoming very commonplace when we are advised to "Telephone Jericho No. 14 for Reservations." Let's go!

Pu-Yi to "Reign"

They are going to crown Henry Pu-Yi in Manchukuo and spend a million dollars for the show. A little man who looks out upon the world through dark-colored glasses considers the occasion important. He is to be an emperor—in name at least—and there will be no more of affront to the traditions of his family. He is 28 and he will "reign" for 34 millions who are expected to regard him as the greatest man in the world, descended from heaven.

It is easy here, with our young traditions, to regard this coronation as something fantastic and to assume that in his own country and Japan there are many leaders who look upon it as a show calculated to please the people and make them more satisfied with their lot. Manchukuo becomes in name and outward form of government an empire by itself. Legendary and sentimental demands are met. A million dollars may be a small price to pay for what will be returned, and that much for coronation of Pu-Yi will be so much less for war. What would be most interesting reading to those of other countries would be an interview revealing accurately the emotions of the young man, himself. Does he realize that he is to be a puppet on a stage throne or does he take the ceremonies seriously?

Stockton Has Faith

Stockton gave another demonstration Tuesday of its loyalty to its inland port and confidence in the community advancement that the project holds. Although this is almost closed season for bond issues, the port district (practically coterminous with the city) approved by a vote of 9 to 1 an issue of $900,000 for expansion, development and appeal to industries.

Several years ago the city voted $3,000,000, which was matched by a like sum by the Federal Government, for deepening and widening the San Joaquin river for ocean craft. Now the Federal Government is expending another million in giving the channel a 30-foot depth, and the district is practically matching this money for further local development. Thus it is to date practically an eight-million dollar project. A year ago the port was opened to sea-borne commerce, which has been steadily increasing.

A deep waterway for ocean-going vessels has been a dream of Stockton from its earliest days when it was the gateway to the Southern Mines, and its realization has been the result of the unification and concentration of public sentiment on the project.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A SIGN OF GRATITUDE

("Thousands, obsessed with the idea of perfection, go to excess in trying to find it, and lose their focus on life,"—Earl D. Bond, Philadelphia psychiatrist.)

Though I fumbled all my subjects in college
And never attained a degree,
And still am deficient in knowledge,
That matters but little to me.
I neither am brilliant nor clever,
Nor wise nor precise nor exact;
I'm a slovenly thinker, however,
My focus on life is intact.

While my earnest and studious buddies
Were slaving at problems in Math,
I gave little thought to my studies
But trod the old flowery path.
To me all my subjects were hateful;
Small lore was I able to glean
From my books, but today I am grateful
That I never have strained the old bean.

I possessed a deep-rooted objection—
Being normally mentally tired—
To seeking the goals of perfection
To which other students aspired.
Though, beyond any doubt, all my mentors
Believed I was hopelessly dumb,
At least my staid cerebral centers
But rarely were jarred out of plumb.

I rejoice that I had no ambition
To rise to impossible heights
And, in striving to gain erudition,
Attempted too difficult flights.
There is little in me to admire,
My conclusions are frequently wrong;
I shall not set the planet on fire,
But my focus is still going strong.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

You can't have a revolution in a land where everybody is meek enough to obey a red light.

Conservatism: The mental daze that accompanies a full stomach.

A great leader is one who suggests an idea and gives the people time to think they invented it.

If you think this a man's world, try talking to a speed cop as a woman does.

The mother who couldn't cook without burning herself now has a daughter who can't open a tin can without getting out.

A BLUE DYE IS INJECTED TO RESURRECT SUICIDES, BUT IT DOESN'T MAKE THEM AS BLUE AS THEY WERE BEFORE.

But now inventions are the mother of our necessity. There is little perfect bliss, except that of Mr. Henpeck as his wife meekly listens to a traffic cop. Ah, well; most of your money goes for taxes, anyway, and a 60-cent dollar still pays a dollar tax.

AMERICANISM: One authority fixing the taxable value of your old car at $400; another authority telling the dealer to allow you $85 for it.

Patient scientists have at last traced almost everything to its origin except gossip.

It takes a good woman to make a man a man; the other kind makes a monkey of him.

The CWA disturbs Dixie. When a colored boy works for it, there's no telling which white man will get what he earns.

IT IS CONTRAST THAT MAKES GREATNESS. IT'S THE TRIMMING AROUND IT THAT MAKES AN EYEBROW MUSTACHE SHOW UP.

Say this for General Johnson. He's the first orator who didn't expect others to do all the work.

Nothing is perfect. Where the winter climate is ideal for men, it is also nice for flies.

But if you save money to protect your kids from hardship, what will they have to brag about at 60?

Of course the hen came before the egg. If the egg was here first, some Chinaman would still be saving it to ripen.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

CWA AND SOCIAL POLICY

History is not made logically. Innocent steps are taken under the pressure of immediate necessity. And, without plan, these innocent steps may become the inflexible policy of a generation to come.

The CWA may become a vivid illustration of this "law" of history. The CWA came into existence in the midst of the most elaborate attempt in American history to plan the national enterprise. And yet the CWA can hardly be considered a part of the emerging national plan. It is an improvised response to an immediately critical situation.

But, as an improvised response to a critical need that was not being fully met by the more mature plans of the government, the CWA may have nailed down a fundamental change in American social policy more sweeping than any change effected by the more considered plans of the Roosevelt administration.

The change in social policy that the CWA has signaled is this: It marks the first time that the American government has committed itself to the policy of guaranteeing employment.

The government did not see fit to follow the English example of the unemployment code. It chose rather to pay the unemployed for working than for not working. The CWA is not only more expensive than the English code but it formalizes a social policy that the English code does not, namely, the policy of a government guaranty of employment.

If the PWA program and a resurgence of private enterprise, with decent promotional, reabsorb the persons now on CWA projects, the new social policy of guaranteeing employment signaled by the CWA will wash out of the picture.

If, however, the PWA program and private enterprise together fail to make the CWA program unnecessary, it is difficult to see how any administration that does not wish to court political suicide can stop the CWA in May or at any other date until recovery in other phases of the national life does make it unnecessary. In the event that we are forced to continue the CWA, our eyes should be open to the policy to which it commits us.

I am not undertaking today to subject the idea of government guaranty of employment to critical judgment. It may be sound even as a long-term or permanent policy even if it is more expensive than the code, for, after all, it is better for the morale of men to be paid for work than to be subsidized for loafing. I am now concerned only to point out how, even in the midst of deliberate planning, some of the most important changes in national policy may come as the result of hasty improvising.

FEEDING THE BIRDS

Birds and children ought to be good friends. There is no lovelier creature in the world than a bird. His form is exquisite, his coloring beautiful, his song, what can we say of a bird's song? There is no music that can compare with it. There is a little sparrow who perches on the topmost twig of an ancient cedar in my garden every summer evening. He sits there and sings to us, filling the place with his marvelous music. The little chap has a place in our hearts out of all proportion to his size but in no way proportioned to the joy he gives us.

There are cedar birds living in the grove close to the house. Proud creatures in royal garments, bearing crests on their haughty heads. Robins live in the maples, bluejays deep in the woods, swallows in the barn, chickadees in the ravine, the blue heron in the marshes, that swampy, grassy, quiet place of shadows. These and many more live with us a part of each year, the most precious of neighbors.

One day last fall, when the leaves had fallen from all the trees in the park save the willows by the pond, I stopped to watch a flock of English sparrows, those sassy vagabonds of the city streets. They were whirling about, in a great flock, rising and falling in what seemed to be a joyous game. Suddenly they whirled in my direction and I found myself in a whirl of soft wings, a cloud of soft flutters, delightful as it was amazing. I had never been so close to birds before and their nearness gave me a feeling of deep delight, indescribable, mystically enchanting.

Winter is upon us and the birds that have stayed over to keep us company through the dark days have to depend upon scant pickings for their food. Let the children learn to feed them. Hang bits of suet on the twigs of a tree. Scatter crumbs of stale bread on a clean hard place, preferably a board nailed to post, safe from cats. Hang a sheaf of wheat on a shed roof where the birds can get it. The doughnuts on a bush. Keep a shallow dish of clean water for them—and remember the cat again. Show hospitality to the birds and they will come close to you and dwell with you. Especially if you have a few thick evergreens to shelter them, will they make themselves at home.
